Senate Snags House Plan For Splitting Road Funds

Basis of Need Setup Voted Down 55-27

Action Paves Way for Formula on Mileage, Size and Population

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON Wednesday (AP)—The Senate wound up a marathon session early Wednesday by passing a giant highway bill providing for the biggest federal construction program in peacetime history.

Passage came on a voice vote after the senate had been in session more than 14 hours.

The major provision of the bill sets up a 40,000-mile system of interstate and defense highways connecting 42 state capitals and 90 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population.

The bill now goes to conference with the house.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rejected Tuesday night a house-approved plan for splitting 25 billion dollars in federal highway funds among the states on the basis of road needs.

The vote was 55-27.

This apparently opened the way for adoption of a Senate formula to divide the money according to the population of each state, its size and highway mileage.

As the Senate worked through the dinner hour on the road bill a mammoth measure to build a 40,000-mile interstate network of super-highways, it was still possible that some compromise method of distributing the money would be agreed on.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) offered the amendment to write the House apportionment plan into the bill. He comes from one of the states which would gain most by that plan. He won support from senators in the same position, including those representing New Jersey, California and Connecticut.

The House plan calls for distribution of money for the interstate system on the basis of the needs of the states as reported to the Bureau of Public Roads in 1954.

Senate Plan Broader

The key factor in the voting appeared to be that 31 states would benefit more under the Senate formula, while only 17 would benefit more under the House plan.

Riding a parliamentary merry-go-round earlier in the debate, the Senate voted both ways on the question of who should fix minimum wages for work on the giant highway program.

First it voted 40-39 to allow the states to set the wage rates, attaching an amendment to that effect to the House version of the highway bill.

An hour later the Senate voted 42-37 to give the rate-fixing authority to the federal government. This decision was made in an amendment to the Senate version of the legislation.

Both Stand

Both amendments stand until the Senate decides which version of the bill it will pass. The odds appeared to be in favor of the Senate version, worked out by the Senate Finance and Public Works Committees.

Vice President Nixon got into the act when he was called upon to break a tie vote of 39-39 on the proposal of Sen. Knowland (D-Calif) to let the states set the minimum wage rates. Knowland offered his amendment while the House bill was before the Senate temporarily, and Nixon voted for it.

The House has already voted to give the federal government the rate-fixing authority. It rejected the "states' rights" plan 192-77. Any differences between the House and Senate will have to be

City Pays Tribute to War Dead Today

CITIZENS ACROSS THE LAND today are paying respects to those patriots who gave their lives in service to their country. Symbolic of the meaning of the day is the silent tribute here accorded war dead in Marion cemetery by George Browning (left) and Zed E. Gunder, both veterans of wars involving the United States. Mr. Gunder, at 87, is one of the oldest veterans in Marion. He served with Company G of the 4th Ohio Regiment during the Spanish-American War, 1898-1900, and saw fighting in Puerto Rico during that campaign. Mr. Browning, 24, one of the youngest veterans, was a member of the 24th Infantry Division when it took a terrific battering during the early days of the fighting in Korea in 1950. Marion's Memorial Day observance will be highlighted by a parade and a memorial service at Marion Cemetery. (Photo by Don Runion, Star staff photographer.)

Clements Is Victor In Bitter Primary Fight in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — U. S. Sen. Earle C. Clements grabbed a whopping lead in the early counting, and before the sun had set the campaign manager for his opponent conceded defeat in Tuesday's Democratic senatorial primary.

The surprising concession came with returns in from only 181 of Kentucky's 4,042 precincts which gave Clements an 8,922-vote lead over former Rep. Joe B. Bates.

Returns from 725 precincts gave Clements 61,051; Bates 21,928, and a third candidate, James L. Delk, 1,542.

Clements, assistant U. S. Senate majority leader, and Gov. A. B. Chandler, his longtime political foe, waged a bitter battle in the primary as the governor threw his support behind Bates.

Charles M. Blackburn, chairman for Bates' campaign, told newsmen:

"We're beat. I am speaking for myself, not Mr. Bates."

Bates was reported en route from Greenup, Ky., to the state capital at Frankfort.

The early, scattered returns were chiefly from Kenton and Campbell counties in northern Kentucky across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, and Fayette County—Lexington, in the heart of the rich Bluegrass country.

Morton in Front

The Republican senatorial primary, overshadowed by the Chandler-Clements scrap, found former Rep. Thruston B. Morton out in front.

Morton was opposed by Julian H. Golden, former attorney for the National Park Service in Washington, and Granville Thomas.

Returns from 725 precincts gave Morton 12,222; Golden 1,248; Thomas 1,448.

Reports indicated that balloting was heavier than usual for a Kentucky primary, possibly for these reasons:

The warm and clear weather; the voting of 18-year-olds for the first time; the high interest in the jousting of Clements and Chandler, long-time political rivals.

The Democrats forecast that up to 400,000 would vote in the state's 4,042 precincts; the Republicans 60,000 or more.

All 8 Up for Renomination

All eight U.S. representatives from Kentucky—six Democrats and two Republicans—sought renomination, with six having primary opposition. Opposed in November only will be Rep. John M. Robsion Jr., Louisville Republican and Rep. Frank Chelf, Lebanon Democrat.

Because of the recent death of Sen. Alben Barkley, the Democratic primary winner will have a big voice in who will be the party's candidate to fill a second Senate seat.

The Democratic State Committee, now dominated by the Clements faction, will select a nominee to oppose a Republican for the remaining four years of Barkley's term. The GOP nominee, too has yet to be named.

Estes, Adlai Vie in Close Florida Vote

Lead Changes Hands Often in Early Count; Ike Is Unchallenged

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson put on a tight, see-saw battle Tuesday night for victory in Florida's crucial Democratic presidential primary.

The lead swung back and forth with the first returns, mostly from the larger cities where voting machines made the tabulating easy.

Has Slight Edge

With the tally approaching the halfway mark, Kefauver was slightly ahead. This was the way things stacked up in the race between the Tennessee senator and the former Illinois governor in returns from 799 of 1,778 precincts:

Kefauver 126,116 or 50.4 per cent

Stevenson 124,116 or 49.6 per cent.

Kefauver was leading at that point for 20 of the state's 28 votes in the Democratic National Convention; Stevenson was leading for 8.

Ike Far Out in Front

Since there was only a technical contest in the Republican primary, President Eisenhower went far out in front of Sen. William F. Knowland and stayed there. He is assured of Florida's 26 votes at the Republican National Convention.

Returns from 627 precincts out of the 1,778 gave:

Eisenhower 27,948 votes, or 95 per cent.

Knowland 1,362, or 5 per cent.

Kefauver had been holding his thin lead since about a third of the returns were in.

But much of the Third Congressional District, in northwest Florida, remained to be counted. And Stevenson regarded that as a reservoir of strength.

3 Top Firms Will Sit In on Steel Parleys

U.S. Steel, Republic, Bethlehem To Talk Jointly With Union

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United Steelworkers announced Tuesday a new contract bargaining procedure under which the union will meet jointly with negotiators of the three biggest steel companies to work out separate contracts. The negotiators will meet here Thursday and Friday, and resume in New York City June 6.

The steel companies named in the announcement were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic Steel Co.

Two Major Changes

This represents two substantial departures from past practices.

In the first place, union negotiators have met separately with each company in the industry, thus carefully avoiding any implication of industrywide bargaining.

Secondly, negotiating sessions have been held in Pittsburgh for the most part, although at times in the past they were shifted to Washington and New York. Uusually, this was done after the negotiators had encountered difficulties in reaching agreement, or some federal agency had intervened to assist, the negotiators.

Issues Statement

The announcement of the next step in developments was made by USW President David J. McDonald in a release distributed to reporters.

The statement said the union, in sessions that opened here Monday, has presented its contract demands to the companies, and has heard the initial views of the companies with respect to the proposals.

The union had asked the three steel companies to negotiate jointly with a union subcommittee and that the companies agreed, with the understanding that "although the representatives of the three companies will meet jointly with the union officers each company will be bargaining only for itself."

Commenting on the announcement, McDonald told a news conference he is hopeful for industry-wide bargaining on steel labor contracts.

2 Greeks Slain In Cyprus Riot

Death Toll Mounting In Nicosia Outbreaks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two Greek Cypriots were shot dead Tuesday, one by a gunman concealed in a crowd of mourners at the funeral of a Turkish policeman cut down by a bomb.

Turkish Cypriots rioted anew in Nicosia, the capital of this British Mediterranean colony, in their feud with islanders of Greek blood.

A bomb thrown into a military vehicle in Nicosia Sunday as part of a militant campaign for union of Cyprus with Greece fatally injured the Turkish policeman who was buried Tuesday.

The funeral was held in the village of Omorphita, near Nicosia. The gunman used the crowd as a screen to slay the Greek Cypriot, whose people outnumber the Turks here 4-to-1.

A few hours earlier a Greek truck driver was killed and his companion was seriously wounded on the Nicosia-Famagusta road by gunfire from four men. The wounded man said the assailants talked to each other in Turkish.

Cincinnatian Charged With Son's Murder

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charles Miller Sr., 49, was charged with murder Tuesday in the shooting of his son, Charles, 23, Monday night after an argument and fight in nearby Reading.

Police said the men argued over the joint ownership of an automobile and the son's intention of quitting his father's bait shop. The fight and shooting occurred in the father's home behind the shop and in the presence of the son's wife and his mother.

Reading Police Chief Harvey Boileau said he understood the men, known among their friends as being very close to each other, had been arguing for several weeks.

Police said it came to a head Monday night when the father went into the bait store in front of his apartment, returned with a pistol, ordered his son to leave, and fired a shot into the floor.

12-Member Unit Organized

Dowler Chosen as Head Of Joint Traffic Group

Former Mayor Harry L. Dowler Tuesday night was elected chairman of a joint citizens-council-city administration committee to study proposed major traffic improvements in the city.

His election came at the initial meeting of the committee, which was formed by Mayor Gale D. Ireland to make recommendations on major road construction in the city.

AS ITS FIRST assignment, the committee members will study recommendations of a traffic engineering firm employed by council to survey the local traffic problem.

The engineers' report, submitted in February by Browne, Roberts & Associates, calls for establishment of one-way thoroughfares, splitting north-south traffic on Routes 23 and 4 between State and Prospect Sts., and building railroad underpasses on these streets; and sending east-west traffic from Route 30-S over Church and Center Sts. The report also made a number of other lesser recommendations.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS who have not yet read the report were urged to do so by the next meeting, scheduled Tuesday, and be prepared to decide then whether they want to review the entire report or confine their studies to the principal recommendations.

The committee decided to give the Route 23 and 4 problem the first priority.

It also decided to meet each Tuesday and Thursday, except Thursday this week, until June 21.

It must have a recommendation to present to council by that time if the city expects to share state funds in the construction projects it contemplates.

For projects involving major state thoroughfares, the state pays the bulk of construction costs. If the recommendations of Browne and Roberts regarding Routes 23, 4, and 30-S are adopted, for example, the state will pay more than 85 per cent of the costs.

HOWEVER, THE state has limited funds for city route improvements and has set up a deadline on applying for state aid. That is the reason for speed on the part of the joint committee.

In other business, the joint committee decided to engage Miss Irene Addison, city clerk, as clerk of the committee.

All of its meetings will be open to the public but visitors will not be allowed to take the floor. This rule was adopted because of the limited time the committee has to do its work.

It was decided that a majority would constitute a quorum.

Citizen members of the committee are Mr. Dowler, John Burke, Ray Beverly, Mrs. William R. Diem Jr., and William Hamor. R. Guy Bigelow, safety-service director, represents the city administration. Council members are Harold Smith, First Ward; James Jenkins, Second Ward; John Corwin, Fifth Ward; John Courtright Jr., at-large; Ralph Williams, Fourth Ward; and Richard Lister, at-large.

Mr. Bigelow pledged the city administration's support to any findings made by the committee. He said Mayor Ireland has declared that the administration will back any recommendation that comes from the joint committee.

Dean Roberts of the Browne and Roberts firm will be asked to attend the next meeting to go over the report with the committee.

3 Youths Hurt In Auto Crash Near Airport

Three youths were hospitalized Tuesday night after their car struck a utility pole and overturned at Pole Lane and Williamsport Roads near the Marion Municipal Airport.

The injured were Jack Clutter, 17, of 874 Merkle Ave., son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Clutter; Damon Ault, 16, of 844 Congress St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil W. Ault, and Garth Wolfe, 16, of 884 Woodrow Ave., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wolfe.

Hospital authorities said Clutter was the most seriously injured. He was being treated for a head injury.

Ault suffered neck and chest injuries.

Wolfe, who was riding in the back seat, was suffering from shock.

Highway patrolmen investigating the accident said the youths' car was headed east on Williamsport Rd. Witnesses told patrolmen the car was traveling at a high rate of speed. It crashed at 8:40 p.m.

The driver apparently lost control of the car, it skidded and went into the ditch. The car rolled over and came to rest against the pole.

Two of the youths, Clutter and Ault, were pinned under the car for nearly 20 minutes. A group of spectators managed to lift the vehicle from their bodies, and hold it

88th Memorial Day

Nation Accords Grateful Honors to Its Hero Dead

By The Associated Press

The United States pays honor to its war dead today in the 88th observance of Memorial Day. From the Golden Gate to the Atlantic, and at military cemeteries overseas, there will be tributes.

The day, also the traditional beginning of the "summer season," will see millions of automobiles on the nation's roads.

The National Safety Council estimated traffic accidents will cost 110 American lives, or 40 more than on a nonholiday Wednesday. This compares with 369 traffic deaths in last year's three - day weekend Memorial Day observance.

Connecticut will use National Guardsmen to help control traffic. They will man 42 jeeps and three helicopters, but will not have police powers. The patrols will caution motorists, give aid in emergencies and assist police when requested.

Rail and airlines said that, with the holiday coming in midweek, they expected no great increase in travel.

President Eisenhower flew to his Gettysburg, Pa. farm Tuesday for a round of golf and an overnight stay, but intended to be back at his Washington desk early today.

A wreath from the President will be placed in the Rundge, N.H., Cathedral of the Pines, before the Altar of the Nation, a memorial to all American war dead.

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker will speak and place a presidential wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the Arlington, Va., National Cemetery.

Warm, Humid Weather Due Over Holiday

Continued warm weather was promised by weather forecasters for today's Memorial Day holiday. There is a chance of scattered showers this afternoon.

The temperature is expected to top Tuesday's high of 81 by four degrees and the humidity is expected to be high again today.

Thursday is expected to see more scattered showers in the afternoon with the temperatures again reaching 85.

A rainfall here Tuesday morning brought .14 of an inch to the local weather station. Observers there said the entire amount of rain fell in the 45-minute period between 9:15 and 10 a.m.

Sewer Survey Report Given To Councilmen

A progress report on the Marion sewer survey was presented to members of the sewer committee of City Council at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the offices of Floyd G. Browne and Associates, local engineers making the study.

Horizontal and vertical control points for the topographical maps being prepared as a part of the survey, and all other field work on the maps now has been completed, the councilmen were told.

In addition, all the aerial photographs taken of the 25-square mile area included in the survey have now been edited and information concerning road widths and other data has been supplied to the Aero Service Corp. in Philadelphia. This firm is making the topographical maps based on the aerial photographs.

The maps are expected to be completed and sent to the local engineers from the Philadelphia company by the second or third week in June.

It was noted that a drawing of the present sanitary sewer system in the city has now been completed and deficiencies because of incorrect grade in the sewers have been located and indicated on the drawing.

The local engineers next will

Paris Expert Gives Tips on Care for Hair

PARIS (INS) — Top Paris hairdresser Alexandre thinks a bride's hair can look lovely on her honeymoon with a minimum of fuss and ugly curlers.

Alexandre is a fellow who should know. He has styled the hair of such illustrious heads as the Begum Aga Khan, the Duchess of windsor, the Countess de Paris and such elegant ladies as Madame Onassis and Olivia de Haviland.

"To have neat and lovely hair you don't have to present yourself to your sweetheart with curlers or pins.

"Before taking a bath in the morning," he advised, "set your hair with pin-curlers. The moisture of the warm water will help while you are in the tub. Have a pretty turban ready to wind over your hair while you have breakfast.

"Brush and comb your hair afterward and . . . voila. You're set for the day in beauty."

Alexandre said women who have fine "baby-hair" can wear their hair long and fluffy, but only the first days after shampoo. Then they should brush it back and wear it in a roll or chignon to be neat looking.

Alexandre advised brides to have a special and different hair-do for the day of the wedding.

"See your hair-dresser a week before the ceremony, study with him the style you'll wear and have a hair-dressing 'rehearsal.' Have yourself glorified and glamorized for this day and consider your hair as your halo," he said.

Alexandre said he was most impressed by the American woman's look of general elegance and loviliness.

"They all look as if they were stepping out of a refrigerator," he said. "So fresh and soignee looking." The only thing he criticized was a certain frizziness of the hair, which, he thought, may be caused by the climate.

To achieve the new Parisian "full-blown" hair - do with a smooth surface, Alexandre uses very thick hair-curlers. These together with a special cut and different permanent wave give the effect of fashionable bulk with the smooth surface.

Would Combat Soviet Threat

Senator Seeks Foreign Atomic Power Program

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), who heads the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, Tuesday proposed a billion-dollar U.S. foreign atomic power program "to meet the threat that godless Russia now poses."

Anderson, in an address before the 168th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. also suggested an accompanying training program for scientists from among "the uncommitted peoples of the earth."

Would Cover 5 Years

The vast plan would run over a probable five-year period, and would serve also as a testing medium for fuller development of America's domestic atomic power program.

Pointing out that in the U.S. atomic power plants can not now meet the cost competition of "conventional plants using fossil fuels," Anderson said:

"There are areas of the earth where power costs are high and where atomic power is soon to be cheaper than conventional power.

Cites Threat

"Do we like the threat that godless Russia now poses in atomic science? Shall we permit a Communist country to occupy the areas that we leave open? Russia will build an atomic plant in East Germany, is pushing atomic development in Red China, has her eyes on Egypt, and will undoubtedly expand her atomic penetration whenever and wherever the chance may come."

To counteract the Russian program, Anderson suggested that the United States send to "friendly lands" the most promising types of nuclear reactors and, at the same time, train key personnel to man them.

Would Cost $5 Billions

The program, he said, would cost approximately five billion dollars over the five-year period—"only a small part of what is now contemplated in military aid."

"I think it would pay far greater dividends both in security and satisfaction," he added.

The General Assembly, now in the sixth day of a seven-day meeting, was asked to reaffirm its "unshakable conviction that all forms of involuntary discrimination are denials of human worth."

A report by the Department of Social Education said "it is the policy and purpose of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. to work for a nonsegregated church and society."

The department asked churches located in areas of local tension to bring various groups together "across racial lines" to discuss their common problems, and called on Christians in general to do everything possible to bring a stop to segregation in housing.

Red Chinese Seek More Instructors

HONG KONG (INS) — Red China plans to turn out 1,440,000 secondary school teachers and build 120 teachers' colleges in the next 12 years.

This plan was adopted at the recent 12-day Secondary National Conference on Teachers Training in Peking.

The plan is now being studied by local government bodies before being submitted to the State Council for final approval.

At present Communist China claims to have 160,000 secondary school teachers and 40 teachers' colleges.

To turn out the additional number of teachers, the Conference suggested that in addition to teachers' colleges, correspondence and night schols should be set up in every city and province providing both regular and sparetime teachers' training courses.

Woman on Skiis In Spite of Years

HART, Mich. (INS) — The U.S. Olympic ski team probably missed a good bet this year when they overlooked Mrs. Johanna Fuehring of Crystal Lake, Mich.

There's only one thing wrong with Mrs. Fuehring — she's 80 years old and a grandmother of four.

Despite her age, Mrs. Fuehring still gets her exercise almost daily by skiing five miles or more.

She learned to ski in her native Austria at the age of seven and has been frolicking on her "hickories" ever since. Five years ago she returned to her homeland and tried out the slopes where she first learned to ski.

Her son, Rudolph explains proudly that his mother is a phenomenon. Her "hair is still blond, although streaks of gray are beginning to appear" he says.

Rudolph added that aside from slightly dimmed vision (corrected by glasses) she still maintains a youthful spirit.

He continued:

"Two years ago mother fell while skiing and sprained her ankle badly. We all thought her days of sport were over but she's still going strong."

Workings of Municipal Court Described in Rotary Club Talk

The history and workings of the Marion Municipal Court were traced by Howard Guthery at the weekly meeting of Marion Rotary Club Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding

Mr. Guthery, a member of the Rotary Club, is one of two Marion attorneys appointed to serve this year on the Municipal Court bench when it is necessary for Judge W. Dexter Hazen to be absent. The other acting judge is Russell Wilhelm.

In his talk, Mr. Guthery pointed out that justice originally was meted out on the municipal level in Marion by justice of the peace courts

Became Outmoded

Population increases and particularly the advent of the automobile, creating numerous traffic cases, caused the justice of the peace courts and mayors' courts to become outmoded.

A municipal court was proposed for Marion in 1925 and it was established Jan. 1, 1927. The first judge, William R. Martin, was elected in the November election of 1926 and he served 13 years. Since Judge Martin's return to private practice the court has been presided over by Judge Hazen.

Procedure for municipal courts was more or less standardized by the state legislature in 1931, Mr. Guthery said. At that time municipal courts were given civil jurisdiction in suits up to $2,000.

The great majority of cases heard in municipal courts are on misdemeanors, the speaker said. He paid tribute to Judge Hazen and former Judge Martin by saying the city has been fortunate to have two such men administering justice in Marion ever since the formation of the court.

974 Civil Cases

The court handled 974 civil cases and 3,396 criminal cases last year, Mr. Guthery reported. The court took in $77,026, he said. He expressed the opinion that the court is functioning much better since the move to the new City Hall, where the court has pleasant, dignified quarters.

The speaker was introduced by William K. Hamor, the club's vocational service chairman. Guests were introduced by Wilson Tway.

Visiting Rotarians were Glenn W. Miller of Waterloo, Ia., J. L. Patterson of Cardington, Walter G. Will of Upper Sandusky and A.T. Holl of North Canton. Guests included George Pforsich of Canton, Herbert K. Holcomb of Rockville, Md., T. Leroy Greer of Washington, D.C., F. D. Randall of Tecumseh, Mich., Robert T. Mason, Mike Cochran, William H. Gracely, Cleo Ludwig, Carroll M. Elspy and Dr. J. Willard Bull, all of Marion.

Body of Man Found In Canal Is Identified

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The body of a man found in a canal at Fries Landing Sunday was tentatively identified Tuesday as Robert Eugene Miller, 23, a Norwalk tree trimmer.

Sheriff Alton T. Young said Miller was reported missing in April. Coroner James E. Walker has not ruled on the cause of death.

The U.S. population is growing at the rate of one every 12 seconds.

Supplemental Jobless Pay Is Ruled Income

Revenue Chief Says SUB Payments Not Wages but Taxable

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government held Tuesday that idle auto workers who receive new supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) must report them as income annually and pay taxes on them

However, they may receive the payments in full, without their being reduced by withholding taxes

Russell C Harrington, Internal Revenue commissioner, ruled that the new SUB payments—due to go into effect Friday for General Motors, Ford and Chrysler workers—are not to be treated as wages but as nonwage income

A number of states still are considering whether SUB benefits are "wages" that would prevent workers receiving them at the same time they draw regular state unemployment compensation (UC) benefits

There had been fears a federal ruling that SUB payments were "wages" might cause these states to turn thumbs down on simultaneous UC and SUB payments and that some states having already okayed the dual system might change their positions.

A total of 18 states and the District of Columbia already have approved, but three states—Ohio, Indiana and Virginia—have prohibited dual payments

Under the auto industry plan employers contribute toward trust funds to finance supplementary jobless aid The worker is entitled to combined UC-SUB payments of up to 65 per cent of normal take-home pay for his first four weeks of unemployment, 60 per cent for the next 22 weeks

Under Harrington's ruling the unemployed auto worker must report and pay federal income taxes in his annual return on the SUB payments he received But he will be exempt on his state UC benefits This is under a 1938 Internal Revenue ruling still in effect that UC benefits are tax exempt.

Ohio Supreme Court Hearing Judicial Issue

Lausche Appointee's Qualifications for Judgeship Disputed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys argued in the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday whether a gubernatorial appointee was qualified to serve as a Columbus municipal judge

At stake was Gov Frank J Lausche s appointment of Alan E Schwarzwalder a former liquor department official, to the municipal bench

The court took the case under study

Prosecutor Samuel L Devine of Franklin County challenged Schwarzwalder's qualifications in a quo-warranto asking by what right he occupied the post he accepted April 20

Devine's assistant, J Ralston Werm, said statute required five years of active law practice as a principal occupation for a municipal judge

Werm contended that Schwarzwalder s duties as a permit chief and assistant liquor director did not constitute the practice of law and that he therefore was not qualified for appointment as judge

The assistant prosecutor said statute provided that only the attorney general could represent the department in court as its lawyer

Attorneys Charles T Kaps and Nelson Lancione argued that Schwarzwalder was qualified for the bench

The gist of their arguments was that Schwarzwalder's duties in the liquor department constituted the active practice of law and qualified him as judge

Schwarzwalder became an attorney May 25, 1949

They Paid the Cost

Memorial Day has come so far from its Civil War origin that its meaning has been blurred by changes in customs.

But everything that has been added and taken away has not changed the respect each of us owes to those who have borne the ultimate cost of national survival.

Memorial Day is the best occasion each year to remember that every American whose personal comfort and security were placed in jeopardy by military service contributed sometning to the comfort and security of all his fellowmen.

Nations are not built and preserved by resolution alone. They must have ability to carry out and defend themselves when challenged. The ability is the composite fighting strength of the nation's manpower.

It always has been this way. It always will be this way. In the final showdown, the United States must depend on the ability of its citizens to defend it at any cost.

Those whose ability has been put to the test are a special class of citizen — a class apart from and above all others.

Whatever your plans for Memorial Day may be, take a few minutes of your time to be grateful for those who saved the United States, whether they fought with a musket in the Revolutionary War, or whether they are teaching themselves to fight with a supersonic airplane in the war that everybody always hopes may never come—the next one.

Service as a Councilman

The resignation of Harold Fralich as Sixth Ward councilman and the selection of Emmett M. Osterholt to succeed him calls for an expression of congratulations to both.

Mr. Fralich is to be commended for his more than four years of service in City Council, a period in which his forthrightness has been a great aid in solving many municipal problems.

Mr. Osterholt should be given a vote of thanks for his willingness to accept the responsibility of the position.

Serving as a city councilman is a quite honorable estate and should be recognized as such by the citizenry. For some reason not quite clear, however, the postion has become one that too often is thankless.

Criticism of public officials is expected and up to a point is healthy, but the abuse sometimes heaped upon council often is unwarranted.

This particularly is true in view of the fact councilmen are serving part-time in addition to their regular employment, and council duties require many hours over and beyond the twice-a-month meetings of the full council.

The spirit of municipal service that motivated Harold Fralich as a councilman, that resulted in Emmett Osterholt filling the vacancy and that keeps the rest of council on the job should be properly appreciated.

Marion stands at the threshold of an era that will require the tackling of some of the biggest problems ever faced by this city.

The job will require the help of every single citizen. Little will be accomplished if the majority sits back and blasts away at those struggling with the task.

This will be a game where we'll need more players on the field and fewer booers in the stands.

Sub Under Par

Time has flown since those much-discussed contracts for supplemental unemployment benefits were being negotiated by employers and unions a year ago.

It is ironic that their first test is going to occur in the first industry to adopt them. On June 1, furloughed auto workers become eligible for benefits in the week beginning June 4, but benefits will be small and beneficiaries relatively few.

To be eligible for any benefits at all, a worker must have been laid off after May 2; tens of thousands of auto workers had been laid off before that date.

In actual practice, only a few weeks' benefits will be received. These will be small, moreover, because the trust funds from which all benefits must be paid are now only about one fourth filled.

In Ohio, furthermore, which is rapidly becoming the equivalent of Michigan as an auto producer, no worker will be allowed to draw supplemental unemployment benefits as a net addition to his state unemployment compensation.

Thus, the first test of this new idea for stabilizing industrial compensation is occurring at a time and under circumstances unfavorable to its hoped-for success a year ago when it was initiated.

No one is happy about this, least of all the Ford Co., which made the first agreement with United Auto Workers. Ford Co. policy has been to solicit business support for SUB as an antidote for the guaranteed annual wage as well as an antidote for the loss of buying power that always follows layoffs in the auto industry. National Association of Manufacturers, on the other hand, has opposed both guaranteed annual wage ideas and SUB, on the premise that they cannot help but be hurtful to the national economy. Its approval has been given, instead, to a plan of deferred wages held in savings accounts.

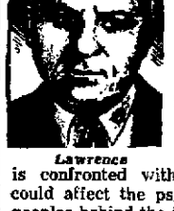
West Fails To Utilize Best Weapon Against Reds

WASHINGTON

When the Soviet government wants to make a psychological move and weigh the probable impact on the people of Britain or America, they call in Messrs. Burgess and Maclean, who know intimately the Western democracies — their gullibility and their political weaknesses.



Lawrence

When the United States is confronted with a move that could affect the psychology of the peoples behind the iron curtain, nobody with a knowledge of the processes of reasoning of the Russians sits in at the top councils. Decisions usually are made on the basis of what American officials think is or will be the Russian reaction.

Thus, today there is a big problem facing decision by the United States government. It is whether to open the way for the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff to visit Moscow and to let the highest military commanders of the Soviet regime come here.

On the face of it, the American mind sees nothing wrong with it —just another means of creating a better "climate for peace."

BUT THE MEN who have knowledge of the Russian underground — the emigres who have fled from behind the iron curtain — are constantly warning that the United States must not appear to be giving sanction to permanent rule by the Moscow tyrants over the satellite states and a continued enslavement of the people of Soviet Russia.

Every since the Geneva Conference of 1954, the Moscow government has been playing up the idea that the United States accepts the "status quo" in eastern Europe. Many Americans, including George Kennan of the Truman administration's policy-making group and now an adviser to Adlai Stevenson, think it's all right to abandon the peoples behind the iron curtain.

Potential trouble for the Moscow regime, however, is imbedded in the satellite states and among the people inside Soviet Russia who still believe the United States will not forsake them.

DR. VLADIMIR POREMSKY, president of the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists — an organization that carries on underground activities in the Soviet Union—flew to America a few days ago and, in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report this week, he discusses the recent visit of Khrushchev and Bulganin to England. He says:

"I think Khrushchev and Bulganin have a double aim. The first aim, which we consider the main one, is to consolidate their prestige within their own country by showing their people that they are being well received abroad, and to use this prestige to stifle domestic opposition. They strive particularly to deprive their people of the hope of support from the free world.

"Their second aim, which we regard as secondary, is to try once more to deceive the West, in accordance with the Leninist line to which they have now returned. Lenin was very optimistic concerning the possibility of fooling people in the West, because he thought that there were many fools there."

"What is your opinion concerning the wisdom or the unwisdom of the Geneva Conference?" he was asked. Here is his reply:

"I think that, because of the prevailing atmosphere in the world today, because of everyone's fear of war, it would have been difficult to avoid the meeting at Geneva. Personally, I would rather it had not taken place. Whether or not such meetings can be avoided in the future will depend on public opinion in the West. Only public opinion can give the Western governments solid ground to stand upon in refusing to participate in such meetings."

GEN. TWINING, chief of the U.S. Air Force, probably will go to Moscow for the air show next month along with air generals from Britain and France. But if the Russians invite the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff as a whole and the invitation is accepted, then the Russian chiefs will want to come here, too. It would mean also that Khrushchev and Bulganin would feel that the United States could not fail to invite them. A number of Military missions from Soviet Russia then would probably go to the Latin American capitals. This would give the infiltration propaganda of the Soviets.

All this is in the face of the fact that sixteen nations which made military sacrifices to support the United Nations in Korea cannot even get permission for a general or any other military officer to visit North Korean camps where the armistice has been violated, especially in building up airfields.

THE NEUTRAL supervisory commission of the U.N. has given up all hope of being able to go into North Korea. Yet visits by American military men to Moscow are applauded in free America in certain quarters and there is a steady drive encouraged by many well-meaning persons to invite Khrushchev and Bulganin to come here.

In propaganda the Soviets are outmaneuvering America largely because they have men in Moscow who understand the Western democracies. But in Washington evidently the Russians who have turned on the Kremlin and who understand Russia are not consulted when policy decisions are being made that could vitally affect the psychology of the peoples behind the iron curtain. Small wonder the "cold war" is going against us.

People Must Be Better

By TRUMAN TWILL

Critics are beginning to say out loud what they have been thinking for a long time—that the human race is falling below the rising requirements of technology.

The sailors who must be taken along for the ride in the new nuclear-powered submarines are a handicap. The submarine can stay under indefinitely, but the men get sick after a few days.

It is scandalous, the way business executives can't stand the competitive pace of profit-making and are always falling by the wayside with afflictions that put them on the shelf and frequently on the slab.

The new faster-than-sound-and-darned - near - as - fast - as - light airplanes raise the question of whether or not pilots can be found who will know when to press the buttons to keep them from crashing.

Wherever you look any more, the human race is falling behind in an uneven contest with machines. The new electronic brains make the old - fashioned human brain seem shabby.

It is beginning to be plain that the designers of machines and the geniuses who draw the tables of organization for high-powered enterprise are way out ahead of the poor slobs of people who must deal with the consequences.

The human race must be sent "back to the drawing board." Its inefficiency is intolerable.

Geneticists will have to be called in to show how human beings can be improved like hybrid corn and those odd-looking cross-bred cattle that can survive the vicissitudes of Texas.

What this country needs is men who can live under water; women who will thrive on a regime of delivering passengers in the family car; executives who will not have to be carried away in baskets just about the time they have learned to live with surtaxes and organizational politics.

This country must have youngsters who can play with a slide rule like a slide trombone at the age of 10, pilot trainees with the vision of hawks and the perspicacity of angels and politicians as wise as Solomon and as patient as Job.

It cannot wait for nature's hit-and-miss system to turn out prodigies by accident. The United States must have quality control.

Machines are having to apologize for the poor human material that is holding them back. Even at its best, the human material isn't good enough.

Any graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology who couldn't make improvements on sub-grade humans who sicken under competitive pressure and have pump trouble when the chips are down wouldn't be trying.

No two ways about it, something will have to be done about the people before the machine age can really roll. People are holding up progress.

Visit to Russia Rude Awakening

By Bernard Kaplan

LONDON

Russia is planning to build a gigantic hydroelectric power station large enough to supply electricity for the whole of London.

This news was brought back by a group of British experts which has just returned from the most thorough tour of Soviet power installations accorded any group of non - Communist foreigners since the war. Lord Citrine, chief of Britain's central electricity authority, headed the delegation.

Citrine's party, like other Britishers who have been in close contact with Russian industrial and scientific development in recent months, came away greatly impressed by what they saw.

Composed of technicians like D. B. Irving, head of the London electricity board, the delegation was not likely to be fooled by Soviet propaganda claims. The members came away convinced that hydro-electrical development in the USSR, which is the responsibility of deposed Premier Georgi Malenkov, is progressing at breakneck speed.

THEY WERE shown plans for an entire string of new dams across the Volga. At Stalingrad—still called by that name, incidentally—they saw one of them being built by approximately 25,000 workers. It will incorporate a 2,000,000 kilowatt power station. In the Urals, they visited power stations, built or building, almost equally as large. It is in the Urals that the largest of all, powerful enough to light New York or London, will be built, the Russians told them.

To the British, one of the most impressive parts of their two-week tour was a visit to Moscow's electrotechnical institute which is said to graduate 1,500 electrical engineers a year. The equipment used by the students is more advanced than any he has seen or heard about at British or American universities, Irving said. It includes a regulation-size power station.

A third of the students at the institute are women. Females make up a large proportion of workers and technicians at all the power stations and dams visited by the delegation.

MOSCOW'S DECISION to lower, to some extent at least, the curtain of secrecy surrounding Soviet industrial progress already has paid off handsomely here. Earlier British skepticism concerning Russian accomplishments has rapidly been replaced by widespread admiration.

Talking to English businessmen and technicians, the impression is formed that they now consider Russia to be neck-and-neck with the U. S. in the industrial-scientific race, whereas, as late as six months ago, they still believed the Soviets were trailing in most respects.

The long range political effect of this new Soviet prestige is difficult to predict. But, ultimately, it may turn out that the most important member of the recent Khrushchev - Bulganin mission to Britain was neither of the two political leaders but I. V. Kurchatov, the nuclear scientist.

Kurchatov delivered two lectures to British scientists on Soviet atomic advances which have been variously described as "remarkable," "brilliant" and "unprecedented." For scientists here, he seemed to prove two things. He ended all doubt that Russia is America's equal in nuclear development and he made it clear that it is Russian scientists themselves, not captured Germans or pro-Communist expatriates of other nationalities, who are leading Soviet research.

THE IMPRESSIONS of the scientists have quickly filtered down to the British public through the newspapers. The ordinary Englishman has retained a very clear memory that it was American industrial preponderance which was the deciding influence in World War II. It is this recollection that has helped to shore up the Anglo-American alliance in peacetime at moments of great stress and strain.

Now they have accepted their own experts' judgment on Kurchatov and the pronouncements of groups like the Citrine delegation as meaning that in another war America would enjoy no such overwhelming industrial lead, if indeed any lead at all.

As far as can be seen by American observers here, the U.S. government is not yet doing much to counter the impact of Russia's rapidly rising stock as an industrial and scientific nation. By not doing so, the feeling here is that America is endangering one of its chief trump cards in the struggle for world prestige.

Allies Study Atomic Pool

By J. M. ROBERTS

World War II was hardly over when three of its small victims — Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg — decided their futures lay in international cooperation.

They formed an organization, known as Benelux, to establish a customs union between them, and nations to join.

The other nations formed organizations of their own designed to do part of what the three small powers hoped Benelux would do for them. None of the organizations has been entirely successful in one of the world's most conservative business areas.

But none has entirely failed, and by gradual process Benelux actually seems to be approaching what seemed, 10 years ago, to be a hopelessly naive goal.

ABOUT THE SAME time Benelux was getting started, two great French statesmen, Jean Monnet and Robert Schuman, Winston Churchill and the German, Adenauer, began to advocate even greater European unity.

The European Community for Coal and Steel was formed, with coordinated supranational controls and single market objectives. It has had its troubles, but it is now a going concern.

The international control body set up to handle coal and steel operates under safeguards against national finagling.

And it is moving into other fields.

Under its urging, the foreign ministers of the six countries involved — France, West Germany, Italy, and the three Benelux countries — are meeting this week to see if they can do much the same thing for atomic energy they have done for coal and steel.

THEY CALL THE new project Euratom. It's to be a pool for research into the production of atomic power for peaceful purposes. It would cooperate but not interfere with national operations, nor with international organizations as proposed under the Eisenhower plan. It is designed to permit the six countries to do in cooperation what they do not have the resources to do alone.

The project, however, has been tied in by its originators to the idea of European federation.

Following directly on the heels of the Euratom organization, if the conferences prove successful, will be a movement to establish a European customs union and a European single market.

BOTH MOVEMENTS will be tied to supranational authority through the Common Assembly set up for coal and steel. This body's members are appointed by individual governments, but work under a charter designed to force them to approach their decisions in a spirit of objective internationalism.

A few years ago the whole approach was considered fantastic. The obstacles, involving not only nationalism but also Europe's antiquated economic practices, are still gigantic.

But for the first time in centuries Europeans are working on these problems in an atomosphere of good will, as against the selfishness of the past, and things are moving at least a little.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Big Tent Influence

The use of circus tents for big corporation-stockholder meetings got special publicity at the recent Ford session and we think the trend will spread. One "big top" and a dozen smaller ones were put up at Dearborn for the first annual meeting under public shareholding and people are back with reports indicating reactions far more satisfactory from tent than from indoor meetings.

There is something about a tent on a spring day that puts stockholders in good humor, abruptly bringing memories of circuses, kid camps and overnight picnics. A stockholder may go to a meeting sore over some policy and determined to blast somebody, but the mood is vulnerable to big-top influence.

He gets off the train thinking of dividends, statistics and stock prices, but once inside a circus tent, he can't help thinking of aerialists, lion tamers and beautiful bareback riders.

WE WENT TO THE FORD meeting, for instance, in an ornery mood but the tent transformed the entire atmosphere. . . . Henry Ford 2nd was no business tycoon in a dark business suit, but seemed to us to be a glamorous performer in pink tights, and for a moment we thought of him as a daring young man on a flying trapeze. Ernest Breech seemed no mere chairman of the board, carrying a brief case full of statistics, but a smiling, fascinating fellow who could have been billed as The Great Ernestinio, Astounding Miracle Man of Motor Manufacturing!

The Ford boys, Benson and Billy were not simply youthful industrialists, but in our imagination took on the form of prodigious personalities captured from inside the family and introduced to the public for the first time. We closed our eyes, let the spell of the big tent envelop us, and even saw Henry the First repeat one of the greatest performances of all time, shinnying alone in the year 1903 to the top of the pole and diving into a bucket full of dreams, emerging not only unhurt but as one of the most successful and beloved industrialists on earth. He even did an encore in which he turned into a philosopher, a beautifier of towns, a restorer of colonial charms and a benefactor of the human race.

WE HEAR MORE AND MORE corporations will use the "big top" for stockholder sessions and are all for it. Some corporation meetings are pretty drab and dull. When we attend one we usually arrive pretty grumpy. It would do us good to see a corporation president enter on an elephant, bearing the annual report, and we would like to have it played on a steam caliope. (Music always makes more sense to us than statistics.)

A JUDGE at the age of 70 started to sail across the Atlantic on a 22-foot boat, but had to return the first day out because of a leak. . . . A judge stayed at home and got the same results by having the bench fixed so it will roll.

This column announces a Help a Swallow Get Back to Capistrano Fund and is starting a Rescue the First Robin Mission. . . . Not in years have the birds up North had it so tough. . . . This season was definitely not for the birds, who continue to report things tough all over, with even the worms frozen all spring and the insects practically iced.

Jackie Gleason is reported being sought to play the straight role of a priest in a TV presentation "The Edge of Heaven." This brings cries of "Oh, no!" from many homes. . . . Jackie's most surprising quality is his ability to switch from the comic to the serious mood, and his versatility is amazing, but the idea of a priestly role being played by a performer famed as the world's top TV comedian and known for pretty boisterous comedy routines is hard to take.

Pictoral Record Of Wedding Urged

CHICAGO (INS) — Why not give the bride and groom a chance to see themselves and all the festivities that took place on their wedding day? A pictorial record — in motion.

Too often, home movies of a wedding wind up with relatives or friends instead of the newlyweds themselves.

Whit Hillyer, photographic consultant for a company which makes home movie cameras, says the best record of a wedding is one that takes in all aspects before and after.

Hillyer recommended that four rolls of color film be allotted to the nuptial panorama. By planning short shots of wedding gown fittings, arrays of gifts, scenes from a bridal shower and the groom's stag party, all these excerpts from the preparations can fit into one roll.

Another roll can be devoted to the entrance of the bride with her father, high points of the ceremony, the recessional and traditional rice-throwing.

The third roll can consist of family groups, reception activities, the couple entering the car, plane or train for the honeymoon.

The last roll is for the couple themselves — to take of the places they are visiting for the first time as "Mr. and Mrs."

Horse and Buggy Period Lingers On HUNTINGBURG, Ind. (INS — The horse and buggy days are still with us, according to F. G. Blessinger, president of the Yuntingburg Wagonworks.

The company was founded in 1874 and has outlasted all the competitors except the Hackney Wagon Co., of Wilson, N. C. in the manufacture of buggies and wagons.

Members of the Amish sect are the major customers for buggies. Their religion forbids ownership of automobiles, Members will ride in a car, but won't own or drive one. The Amish live principally in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio and most of them are farmers.

Manufacture of show buggies for state fairs and horse shows also is important for the Huntington concern.

Indians of the Southwest are good customers for wagons, according to Blessinger, who said: "Indians buy wagons just like most people buy cars."

Blessinger said the wagon is of especial value in rugged country and on rocky roads of the frontier which probably would wreck the stoutest automobile.

Also, several years ago, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Fox and Paramount movie concerns ordered many wagons from Huntingburg for the cover-wagon pictures.

During World War II, the entire production was devoted to shaping of escort wagons for the Army.

Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains staged a mild rally on the Board of Trade Tuesday but finished under the day's best prices.

The rally sufficed to wipe out all of the previous session's loss in wheat but not in any other cereal. Only contract to end lower was July corn.

Dealings were moderately active but not as fast paced as in the preceding session.

Wheat closed 1 to 1½ higher, corn ¼ lower to ⅞ higher, oats ⅛-⅞ higher, rye unchanged to ¾ higher, soybeans unchanged to 3½ higher and lard unchanged to 3 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Brokers thought one reason for the rally was the market's improved technical condition. Prices have been declining since early April and losses in some cereals have been quite severe. Some weak long holdings have been washed out, dealers said.

Trading in July soybeans continued to be very nervous. After opening a few cents higher, the July future dipped below the previous close and under the $3.00 mark. Then it recovered.

One factor restraining any strong advance in July soybeans was continued easiness in cash bean oil and meal. The oil sold at 13⅞ cents a pound, off ¼ and at a new low since March. Meal was down $1.00 to $2.00 at $58.50 to $59.00 a ton.

Chief bullish inspiration for soybeans was a Census Bureau April crushings report. It showed crushing of 25,259,000 bushels compared with 20,030,000 in the same 1955 month.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, in a tremendous advance, Tuesday scored its widest gain in 17 years.

The lunge ahead snapped off a three-week reaction that had started when the market was near record high levels.

Wide gains in prices were ascribed by brokers to buyers anxious to add to their holdings at the unusually low prices on by the sharp reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $3.30 at $178.50, greatest gain since Sept. 5, 1939. That was when Hitler was marching through Poland at the outset of World War II.

Gauged against the average, the quoted value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange gained an estimated four billion dollars. During the reaction, an estimated 18 billion dollars was lost from the quoted value.

In mid-February the stock market started a sustained drive ahead that took it to record highs by early April. Then the rally faltered. Three weeks ago it started to slump in a drastic manner, and a major portion of the previous rise was wiped out.

Brokers predicted the market would meet with buying support in several places, but it fell right through those levels. Monday in the final minutes of trading, traders and investors decided suddenly that the time had come to buy. They entered the market in force and sent prices up from their lows. The market as a whole, however, was lower at the finish.

That buying enthusiasm carried over to Tuesday's start, and prices were higher immediately under the impetus of a growing demand. The advance continued steadily throughout the day.

There were 2,430,000 shares traded as against 2,780,000 shares.

With the average up $3.30, the industrial component added $4.90, railroads were up $3.30, and utilities gained 60 cents. Monday the 60-stock average lost $2.20. Tuesday's average of $178.50 compared with the record high of $191.50 April 6.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange on volume of 730,000 shares as compared with 1,060,000 Monday.

NEW YORK (AP)—The bond market closed higher Tuesday with convertibles, reflecting the upsurge of their stock counterparts, playing the biggest role. Quality investment issues advanced while rails and industrials were steady.

U. S. government bonds were down sharply—their severest setback since April 16.

Volume declined to $3,870,000 par value on the big board from $4,260,000 Monday.

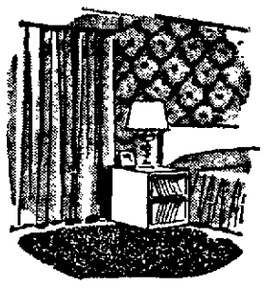
Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

If your bedroom walls are wallpapered in a pattern (or stripe) try to avoid using a lot of other pattern in the room. To do so will produce an over-busy, disquieting effect and detract from the desired restful feeling that a bedroom should have. The exception, of course, is the "everything alike" scheme, where matching wallpaper and draperies are used.



Plain Draperies and Spreads . . .

. . . are your best choice for a bedroom with patterned walls. Choose them in a color that matches the background of the wallpaper, or pick up one of the colors in the pattern. Use texture interest such as quilting, candlewick, or a novelty weave to relieve large expanses of plain surfaces.

We have lovely bedroom suites for every style home. Contemporary, Traditional and Provincial groupings that will give you years and years of satisfactory service. Come in and let us help you plan your bedroom, and select the furnishings that best suit you.

Johnny Thompson Rated Top Choice By Drivers To Take Decision in '500'

Excessive Heat and Rains May Slow Up 33-Car Field

By WILL GRIMSLEY

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Johnny Thomson, a nerveless New Englander with a "hot car," was made a slight favorite Tuesday for Wednesday's 40th 500-mile Speedway race, which should produce a record speed unless hampered by excessive heat or showers.

The Weather Bureau, harassed by three days of rain which placed Indianapolis on a flood alert, predicted temperatures of 86 degrees, high humidity and possibility of showers.

Goes As Scheduled

Speedway officials announced the race definitely would go on as scheduled at 11 a.m. (EST) although postponement was touch-and-go Monday after flash floods sent rivulets across the 2½-mile asphalt and brick track. The track dried quickly Tuesday under a warm sun.

Because of mud conditions, spectators were urged, however, to use public transportation, and, if possible, leave the family cars at home.

A crowd of more than 100,000 is expected to view the death-defying grind, the premier event of American automobile racing. There will be no television but details will be broadcast over the Speedway's special radio network of 271 stations in 45 states.

Thirty-three high-powered cars, piloted by the country's greatest drivers, will be gunned at the 130.84 m.p.h. records set in 1954 by Bill Vukovich, killed while leading last year's race.

The 1955 winner, Bob Sweikert of Indianapolis, and two other past champions, Johnny Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., and Troy Ruttman of Pasadena, Calif., are in the experienced field, but the most attention is being lavished on Thomson, the little Scot from Springfield, Mass., who qualified in the second best time of 145.549 m.p.h.

At the annual driver's dinner, the men behind the wheel favored Thomson as the driver most likely to succeed. He is driving a Schmidt special. This is the fourth try for the 37-year-old New Englander, who finished fifth last year.

Gets Pole Position

The 10-mile qualifying record was set by Pat Flaherty of Chicago, who registered 145.596 m.p.h. in a John Zink special to gain the pole position. However, only five times in the past 39 races has the pole winner captured the prize.

Prediction of a new speed record came after 15 drivers in the 33-car field qualified at speeds above the previous Speedway trialsy record.

Sweikert, who zoomed to victory last year after the front-running Vukovich died in the flames of a four-car smashup, said he believed that under good conditions it would take an average speed of 136 m.p.h. to win.

Intense heat or rain could jeopardize the assault. In 1953 the heat was so intense that one driver died of heat prostration and seven others were hospitalized.

Showers stopped the race at 400 miles in 1926 and at 345 miles in 1950. The race becomes official after 255 miles. The Speedway event hasn't been postponed since 1915.

255 Miles Needed For Official Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—It takes 255 miles to constitute a race in the scheduled 500-mile contest at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Wednesday.

It never has been necessary to continue the race to another day. It was halted by rain at 400 miles in 1926.

If rain forces a temporary halt, the cars are lined up, single file, in the order of their standing before the delay.

Long's Homer Streak Ended By Newcombe

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Don Newcombe stilled Dale Long's booming home run bat and the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-1 Tuesday for his seventh victory of the season.

Long, who blasted eight home runs in eight straight games to set a new major league record, went hitless in four times at bat Tuesday.

Newcombe sewed up the contest in the second inning with a ringing bases loaded three-run double.

The Dodgers sprayed six Pirate hurlers for 14 hits, four of them for extra bases. Randy Jackson, playing third, got three of the Dodgers' hits.

The Dodgers clubbed on loser Ronnie Kline for four runs in the second, picked up single markers in the fourth and fifth and whacked out four more with a five hit splurge in the seventh.

Newcombe struck out six, didn't walk a single Pirate, and allowed only seven hits.

The loss snapped a four-game Pirate winning streak but did not hurt their third-place standing in the National League.

Rookie Catcher at 30

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Catcher Charley Thompson has had four trials with the Brooklyn Dodgers but didn't get into amajor league game until this season when he joined the Kansas City Athletics.

The 30-year-old native of Coalport, Pa., broke into organized ball with Cambridge, Md., in 1947. He had trials with the Dodgers in 1950, 1954, 1955 and this spring. Last season he batted .313 in 11 games for St. Paul.

SATCH STILL HESITATES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Satchel Paige, the ageless Negro pitcher, is back with his former Cleveland boss, Bill Veeck. And he still has his hesitation pitch. International League president Frank Shaughnessy has ruled the pitch legal. Satch is hurling for the Miami Marlins and Veeck is one of the team's vice presidents

Bell Smacks Three Homers As Redlegs Rip Cubs 10-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Gus Bell smashed three homers to produce seven RBI's in a 5-for-5 batting day to propel Brooks Lawrence to his sixth victory without defeat in Cincinnati's 10-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday.

Bell, who also collected two singles, drove across two runs in both the third and fifth innings with his sixth and seventh homers of the season, and slammed across three more in the seventh inning with homer No. 8.

Redleg catcher Ed Bailey also smacked a homer with none aboard in the fourth inning.

Lawrence, who allowed eight hits, held the Cubs scoreless until the sixth inning when three hits shoved across two Chicago runs. Walt Moryn slammed his No. 4 homer in a two-run Cub ninth.

Starter Sam Jones was the loser and in his five-inning stint yielded Bell's first two homers and Bailey's circuit drive to give Cincinnati a 5-0 lead

Ohio Shotgun Experts Seek Tourney Title

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Buckeye shotgun experts will decide the state's clay target titles here this week as the Ohio State Trapshooting Assn. offers its 70th annual tournament.

Tuneup events were on schedule Tuesday and today, with the championships slated Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Class champions in five divisions are on tap Thursday in a 16-yard, 200-target race, and the Ohio singles title will be decided Friday over the same route.

The preliminary handicap, and the doubles championship, are on Saturday's slate, both at 100 targets, and the grand finale Sunday is the Ohio Handicap Championship, also at 100 targets.

Entry fees alone for the class, doubles, preliminary handicap and handicap races total $46. If the optionals are played in each event, the cost per shooter goes to $193. And the 700 shotgun shells for the final four days would cost $67.20, for a total outlay of $260 20.

Under the optional system, each entrant is allowed to toss the extra fee into a fund, all of which is returned to the better shooters.

In the singles race champions will be named by men, women, juniors, sub-juniors, veterans and husband-wife. The all-around victor will be the high gun for the singles, doubles and handicap races over 400 targets.

The event is scheduled at the Fisher Brothers' Shooting Park, which will award $1,000 in trophies in addition to the $3,500 "added money" offered the high guns by the state association.

Invasion Repelled

Americans Sidelined in Bid For British Amateur Title

By STERLING SLAPPEY

TROON, Scotland (AP)—The Scots Tuesday repelled the American invasion in the 61st British Amateur golf championship.

As play moved through the third round of the hot, dry Troon links, the men from Ayrshire, Lanarkshire and neighboring golfing strongholds took over and there were only two Americans left who had much chance of winning the title that has been in American hands six of the past nine years.

They were Joe Conrad, the little red-haired Texan who is defending champion, and big Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Andrews, the 1954 American public links champion, was especially impressive Tuesday as he knocked off a pair of other Americans to get into the fourth round.

Andrews whipped Billy Goodloe, the long-hitting Georgian, 5 and 4, in the second round Tuesday morning. Then he took Jennings Randolph of Bethesda, Md., a strong favorite in their third match, by a lopsided 6 and 5 score.

Conrad, unperturbed while the other Americans were being beaten all around, whipped Scotland's Tom Armstrong in the third round He had played his second round match Monday.

Besides Goodloe, seven Americans were shunted into oblivion in the second round. Five more lost in the afternoon.

Knocked out in the morning were New York's 40-year-old Frank Strafici, Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., Ernest Arend of Deal, N. J.; Merlin Robertson of Pasadena, Calif.; Fred Brand Jr. of Pittsburgh; H. H. Russell, a vacationing Miami businessman, and Vernon Bell of Memphis, Tenn

Funeral Rites Are Held for Al Simmons

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al Simmons returned in death Tuesday to the pretty parish church he attended as a boy before he set out on the baseball career that touched three decades and left him enshrined in the game's Hall of Fame.

Simmons, who died of a heart attack Saturday as he was about to enter the Milwaukee Athletic Club where he lived, was buried from St. Hyacinth's Roman Catholic Church on Milwaukee's South Side.

It was the same church, and the same neighborhood where young Aloysius Szymanski started with sandlot baseball 40 years ago.

Floral tributes to Simmons, the all-time great hitter with a 21-year major league batting average of .334 came from all over the country, as did veteran baseball figures like Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, Jimmy Dykes and Mickey Cochrane, who played with Simmons for most of the nine great years on Connie Mack's old Athletics

Simmons was buried in Adalbert's Cemetery.

Question From Actress Is Greeted With Silence

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Blond, curvy Virginia Mayo, the movie actress who will kiss the winner of the 500-mile race Wednesday, impulsively asked the drivers why they don't "stop worrying your wives and get out of this racket?"

A chill silence greeted the actress' remark at the annual pre-race meeting of drivers and their wives and Indianapolis Speedway officials.

Then, as a few embarrassed titters broke the silence, Miss Mayo gasped.

"Oh. I've made a faux pas."

Stock in Chicago Cubs Is Offered

CHICAGO (AP)—Brokers advertised for sale Tuesday "a substantial minority block" of Chicago Cubs stock.

The stock was advertised by A. G. Becker & Co. and was said to consist of 430 shares, presently valued at about $310 per share. The club has not paid a dividend in recent years.

Dr. David J. Jones, former owner of the Chicago Cardinals and a Cub stockholder for years, said he is the second largest holder. Phil Wrigley owns approximately 3,000 of the 10,000 shares outstanding. Some 200 persons hold the other 2,000 shares.

Prelim Fight Scheduled On Card at Troy Arena

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Matchmaker Jack Laken said Tuesday he had signed Charles Grover, Cincinnati middleweight, and Eddie Smith of Detroit for an eight-round bout on the June 9 fight show at Hobart Arena. Smith is billed as the middleweight champion of Michigan.

The pair will be on the supporting card of the show headlined by a 10-rounder between Carmen Basilio, former welterweight champion, and Felix Machado of Cuba, making his first start in this country. Two other 10-round bouts are scheduled.

Wightman Net Squad Chosen For England

LONDON (AP)—The same four British girls who were defeated in last year's Wightman Cup matches were chosen Tuesday to try to wrest the trophy from the United States this year.

The British Lawn Tennis Assn. named Shirley Bloomer, Angela Buxton, Angela Mortimer and Pat Ward for the cup matches at Wimbledon June 15-16.

Top Draft Choice Of Browns Signed

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns Tuesday signed their No 1 draft choice, Preston Carpenter, University of Arkansas halfback.

The 6-2, 190-pound gridder has a good chance to make one of three regular positions on the National Football League team, a club spokesman said. The spots in mind are offensive halfback defensive halfback and offensive end.

The spokesman said the Browns coaches were particularly impressed with Carpenter's ability as a pass receiver.

Carpenter, who doubled as a baseball catcher for Arkansas, is married and became a father last February.

WORK SHAVER

NEW YORK (INS)—The difference between a job and unemployment often is no thicker than a hair's breadth, according to a top job placement expert. Because modern business prefers neat, clean-shaven men, says Karl M. Wehinger, head of one of the largest local association of employment agencies, many job seekers who do not know how to shave properly lose many good employment opportunities.

Bonus Player Leads Nats to 6-5 Decision

BALTIMORE (AP)—Harmon Killebrew got into the game by accident Tuesday and promptly socked two home runs for his first hits this season to propel the Washington Nationals to a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The 19-year-old from Payette, Idaho, replaced second baseman Pete Runnels, who was spiked in the second.

In the next inning, up for only the 10th time this season, he smaked a homer with Eddie Yost on to put the Nationals ahead 2-0.

In the sixth, he hit the first pitch by Johnny Schmitz, third Oriole hurler, into the left field stands.

Killebrew, signed as Washington's first bonus player last season, got into 38 games last season. Although he batted only .200 he hit four homers

The spike wound on Runnels' foot necessitated several stitches and he will be unable to play for several days.

Congressman Wants Cut in Louis' Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep Sieminski (D-NJ) introduced a bill in the House Tuesday to relieve former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis of all outstanding income taxes owing the government since 1939

Louis' much publicized income tax troubles stem from unpaid taxes, penalties and interest reported to total between a quarter and a half a million dollars. His fights as heavyweight title holder from 1937 to 1949 grossed millions of dollars

Sieminski called on Congress to wipe out Joe's income tax debt to Uncle Sam as an acknowledgement that "Joe has done a lot for the United States."

Lemon, Houtteman Facing Chisox in Holiday Program

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, in a hitting slump and trailing the New York Yankees by four games, meet the Chicago White Sox in a doubleheader here today.

Art Houtteman, 28 - year - old righthander who has pitched only 8 innings in relief this season, is scheduled to make his first start for the Indians.

Bob Lemon, who hasn't been able to beat the White Sox in two attempts this year, will start the other game for Cleveland.

Billy Pierce, whose 5-2 record includes two over the Tribe, and Bob Keegan (2-1) will hurl for Chicago.

Cleveland's big four — Lemon, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia and Herb Score—have started all but two games. Bob Feller got the call on the others, and was knocked out of the box both times.

But manager Al Lopez is more worried about hitting than pitching. The team batting average is only .233. Vic Wertz, with a flat .300 average, is leading the regulars. Al Rosen was second best at .284 before he was benched by a knee injury last week.

"I know people say bring somebody up from Indianapolis," said Lopez. "Well, we've got a couple of fellows on this team who came from there and they're having their troubles, wouldn't you say?"

Rudy Regalado, subbing for Rosen, is hitting .237, and Rocky Colavito, an outfielder who is supposed to look like Joe DiMaggio at the plate, is hitting .155. Both were with Indianapolis last year.

Steve Gromek, Detroit pitcher who defeated the Indians 3-1 last night, said there were only two men in the Cleveland lineup he really worried about—Wertz and Al Smith.

"If you stop them, you've got a good chance to beat the Indians," he said.

Harding Graduate Wins Conference Pole Vault Event

Max Kaelber, former Harding High school pole vaulter, walked off with top honors in that event in the Mid American Conference track meet recently at Bowling Green.

The BG sophomore cleared 13-4 in his winning effort. He has cleared 13 feet on six occasions this season and his coaches are predicting that he'll reach 14 feet before his college career ends.

Max is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kaelber of 208 Pennsylvania Ave. He was graduated from Harding in 1954 where he competed with the track and basketball teams.

Chicago Clips Athletics 7-4 in 12-Inning Battle

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Chicago White Sox were halted by rain for an hour and 15 minutes in the 12th inning Tuesday before they finished a 3-run rally that gave them a 7-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

KENTUCKY MANSION

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP) — The Old Governor's Masion here, that served as the residence of Kentucky governors for 116 years, is being renovated this spring for use as an official residence for the lieutenant - governor. the home, five years older than the White House, was constructed in 1796, just a few years after Kentucky entered the Union.

Chisox Defeat Athletics 7-4 In 12 Innings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Chicago White Sox outlasted a pouring rain, Ed Burtschy and the stubborn Kansas City Athletics to take a 7-4 victory in the 12th inning Tuesday, scoring three times on only one hit in the final inning which was delayed over an hour by a downpour.

After pitching two innings of hitless relief, with the score tied 4-4, Burtschy lost control.

He walked Larry Doby, who moved up on Dave Philley's sacrifice, and intentionally passed Jim Rivera before Hec Lopez booted Walt Dropo's grounder to let in Doby with the tie-breaking run.

And after intentionally walking pinch hitter Dick Donovan, Burtschy couldn't get the ball over to Sam Esposito, walking in another run before the rain stopped proceedings and threatened to erase the Chicago rally and send the score back 4-4 at the end of the last complete inning.

After the hour and 15-minute rain-enforced wait, the Sox scored another run off Tom LaSorda, who had come on to pitch for the A's. LaSorda got Jim Wilson on a strikeout but Fred Hatfield laid down a bunt to bring in the final tally.

Starter Howie Pollet was sailing along on a 4-hitter going into the ninth with the Sox leading 4-2 when Enos Slaughter ignited a 2-run rally that tied the core and brought Sandy Consuegra and hence Wilson to the rescue.

Pollet walked Harry Simpson after Slaughter's single and departed in favor of Consuegra, who got Gus Zernial and Tim Thompson on fly balls before pinch hitters Vic Power and Joe Ginsberg singled in the pair of runs. Wilson got Mike Baxes on a foul-out to save the game for the Sox.

Rules for Summer

Water Safety Precautions Urged by Spokesman at 'Y'

With the approach of summer, and along with it the outdoor swimming season, Dean Ludwig, physical director at the Marion YMCA, urged more participation in outdoor activities by the city's adults as well as youths.

Ludwig urged strict adherence to safety rules and offered a list of precautions to be followed for safe swimming.

According to Ludwig, "It's an obvious fact that most of us don't get as much exercise as we need" and that a daily program of body conditioning for people of all age groups is recommended by doctors. He said regular exercise can help "avoid completely, or at least postpone for 15 years" many common old age symptoms.

LUDWIG SAYS, "The secret of holding onto youth is to open up blood vessels by physical activity and use them more." He said that the method is regular, rhythmic exercises. "Swimming is about the best all round conditioner there is," Ludwig said. "The easy, swimming movements stimulate a healthy flow of blood." It improves the heart and lungs, tones up the body generally, and relaxes and invigorates the swimmer, Ludwig reports.

Ludwig urged Marionites to swim more this summer as well as to learn to swim better. "Most water accidents involve poor swimmers rather than non-swimmers" he says.

The local "Y" provides programs in aquatics throughout the year at all levels of water efficiency. Men and women beginner classes start every six to eight weeks as well as children's beginners classes. Beginning June 4, the local "Y" launches its annual learn to swim campaign for children. It is a one-week course for both boys and girls. On June 11, the youth program for the summer months starts and on June 18, swimming classes for adults at the beginner, intermediate and advanced levels will begin. Ludwig points out that adults as well as children can procure summer memberships at the "Y" for half price and take advantage of the learn to swim classes.

ACCORDING TO Ludwig, the national YMCA has pioneered in water safety techniques since 1885 and teaches approximately 360,000 people to swim each year.

For the safety of persons embarking on summer recreation trips to a water area, Ludwig is outlining briefly 13 basic rules for water safety.

They include: 1: Pick a safe place to swim; 2: Don't misjudge your swimming ability; 3: Never dive into unknown water and keep away from weeds, grass and lily pads; 4: rest, relax and cool off following hard exercise before going swimming; 5: Don't be a water show off; 6: Don't swim in heavy surf or under a water fall; 7: Always race toward shore or parallel to it; 8: Beware of water wings, old inner tubes, rafts, and inflated rubber or plastic animals; 9: Don't ride in small boats if you can't swim; 10: Don't take a sail boat out unless you're a good swimmer and understand sailing; 11: Don't swim during an electrical storm; remain out of open boats, and keep off beaches and fields; 12: Remain out of the water if at all possible when attempting a water rescue; and 13: Remain calm when in trouble in the water.

"THROUGH THE medium of instruction classes, open plunges, and family hours, the "Y" makes it possible for everyone to improve themselves in the important art of watermanship," Ludwig explained.

He added the local YMCA "actually dedicates the greater part of its summer program to dimming water fears and improving watermanship at every level" and invites anyone whose watermanship "is not quite up to snuff" to stop at the "Y" and take advantage of the courses offered at any swimming level.

Nixon Stops Yankees on 3 Base Hits

NEW YORK (AP) — Righthander Willard Nixon lost his chances for a no-hit game in the eighth inning Tuesday but still managed a three-hitter as the Boston Red Sox whipped the first-place New York Yankees 7-3.

The Red Sox thus trimmed the Yankees' lead to four games

Nixon, making his first start after two weeks of treatment for a sore shoulder, had a perfect game until he walked Mickey Mantle on four straight pitches in the seventh inning after two were out.

The first hit was Billy Martin's triple after two were out in the eighth inning. Andy Carey then grounded out.

Mantle hit his 18th homer with two out and one on in the ninth, and Yogi Berra tripled, and scored on Bill Consolo's error, to spoil Nixon's shutout. The runs were unearned, because Gil McDougald reached first on Frank Malzone's error just before Mantle homered.

The Red Sox supported Nixon with a 13-hit barrage, which included homers by Billy Goodman and Sammy White.

Mantle now is nine games ahead of the pace maintained by Babe Ruth in 1927 when he hit 60 homers. Ruth drove No. 18 in his 48th game, on June 7.

Ted Williams returned to the Red Sox starting lineup for the weeks, but failed to hit in four trips.

Except for pinch hitting, Ted has been sidelined since breaking some blood vessels in his foot April 18.

Memorial Dialogue

By Hal Boyle

ANY CEMETERY, U. S. A. Dialogue under the headstones:

HAL BOYLE

Jim (vintage '18): Well, here it is another Memorial Day. Wonder who'll come?

Jim (vintage '17: Who cares?

Clem (vintage '64): Not me, I'm not expecting visitors.

Charley (vintage 63): Me neither. It's been a long, long time for both of us. But restful.

Joe (vintage '43): I'd like to see my folks again.

Frank (vintage '50): I never had no folks—unless you can call an orphan home daddy. But Edith, my girl, she said she'd never forget. But she only came here once to see me.

Jim: I had folks once a long time ago, but I ran away young, and wasn't the kind of kid they'd exactly want to remember.

(AN ELDERLY WOMAN came and knelt above George, prayed a few moments, then walked away, her head down.)

George: Stella! When I kissed her goodby she said if I didn't come back she'd never marry again. That was what?—38 years ago. She looks so old and tired and lonely. Does she really think that's the way I wanted it? If I could only have left her a son.

(Four people, an elderly couple and a young couple, came to Joe's headstone, decked it with flowers, and spoke of him lovingly as they sat down on the grass and opened a picnic lunch.)

Joe: Mom! Dad! And my kid brother. How big he is! The girl with him must be his wife. Imagine Harry being married. How fast things change—up there.

—:—

(A DELEGATION FROM the Sons of the Confederacy arrived, planted a waving flag (the Stars and Bars), by Clem's grave, listened to a brief speech then departed.)

Charley: I don't know what happened to the Sons of the Grand Army of the Republic this year, Johnny Reb, but your side remembered you.

Clem: Why shouldn't they, Yankee? Who do you think won the war? But it was a mighty turrible short speech.

George (musingly): Wars and speeches....speeches and wars. I wonder if we all had it to do over again, whether we'd.....

—:—

JIM (TESTILY): Had what to do over again? All I did was to get kicked by a mule in a training camp in Missouri. All my buddies thought it was funny....until I keeled over. I never even had a chance to laugh.

George: I was crawling through some barbed wire near Chateau-Thierry when a Hun sniper....

Clem: I was crying for water in a Yankee prison...I had the fever bad...and suddenly I was taken with a coughing fit and....

Charley: I was thirsty, too, Reb, on that third day at Gettysburg when I lifted my head, and a bullet came and....

Joe: I wanted wings, and I was guiding a bomber over Germany when we ran into a flak burst, and—well I won my second pair.

FRANK: I was in the Marines, just turned 20, when we landed in Korea. Didn't even have time to hate anybody. Five minutes after we started up the first hill a mortar hit at my feet and.. Aw, who cares now? Where's Edith. She was only 18 when she promised she'd always....couldn't she come just this once?

Charley: Never mind, son. You'll get used to it. Anyway, maybe she misses you in ways you don't even know.

Frank: But Edith was the only girl I really ever knew, the only one I ever had a chance to know.

(The family group above Joe rose to go. His mother, the last to rise, suddenly knelt down again, put her lips to his name in the stone, and burst into tears.)

Joe: Mama...Mama...

(The cemetery guard closed the gates behind the last departing visitor. Memorial day was over. A meadowlark, hidden in the darkling grass, sang a requiem to a silent camp.)

Lausche Sold On Purchase Of Cedar Point

State Shouldn't Miss Opportunity, Says Governor About Site

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio is moving to acquire the Cedar Point resort area on Lake Erie's Sandusky Bay as a state recreation area.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche made that disclosure Tuesday, saying "the state of Ohio ought not to miss the opportunity of acquiring this land."

As a resort area the Cedar Point property has waned in popularity in recent years, but once it was one of the big vacationlands in the Midwest.

The governor said A. W. Marion, natural resources director, has been making a study of the area to determine its suitability for public use. The site, resembling a thumb projecting into Sandusky Bay, has about 400 acres and some 7,000 feet of beach on Lake Erie. Additional frontage on Sandusky Bay is suitable for boating, fishing and other recreational purposes.

"If the Cedar Point area is acquired by the state," said Lausche, "Ohio will then have in its possession all of the best land of any quantity that lends itself to use for public bathing and will achieve the recommendation made by a governor's advisory committee created in 1946."

The George A. Boeckling Co. originally owned most of Cedar Point, but sold portions to private individuals. Marion said 51 per cent of the company stock is held in trust by the Central National Bank and Trust Co. of Cleveland. That total 6,250 shares.

Only recently George A. Roose, a Toledo bond dealer, announced he was heading a syndicate to purchase the property as a location for a home development project.

Vienna Undergoes A Medical Rebirth

VIENNA (INS) — Vienna is rapidly returning to its former status as the world's greatest medical center.

This charming Central European city, which led the world in medical science for centuries, is undergoing the fourth great medical renaissance in its long history.

The hub of this rebirth is the medical faculty of the University of Vienna. The university has built its post-World War II medical faculty around a nucleus of eminent physicians, the kingpins of the Viennese medical mecca of pre-war days.

Today, Vienna boasts 52 major hospitals comprising a total of 35,000 beds. This is considered exceptional medical resources for a city the size of Vienna, with approximately 1,800,000 population.

Every year since the war, physicians the world over in ever growing numbers, have arrived in Vienna to study some of the 534 highly-advanced, specialized post-graduate courses with the university's medical faculty.

Openings Available for Men For 47th State Patrol School

Qualified men are still needed for the 47th Ohio State Highway Patrol Training School scheduled to start late in July, Cpl D. M. DeWalt, commanding officer of the Marion post, said today.

The July school is the third this year in a continuous training program to bring the patrol to its authorized strength of 700 men, plus those assigned to Ohio Turnpike duty. Approximately 100 new patrolmen are needed.

Cpl. DeWalt said Capt. J. L. Hanley, head of the training school, has authorized the immediate processing of qualified applicants so that they may be eligible for the July school However, those who apply after the complement is filled will be considered for later training sessions. The school is located south of Columbus in Franklin County.

Particularly urged to investigate opportunities offered in the patrol are recently discharged veterans and college students who have reached the age of 21 and who do not intend to continue their studies. "These groups in the past have proved to be highly successful in meeting the patrol's rigid requirements and have done well in the training school," Cpl. DeWalt said.

Basic requirements for new patrolmen include a minimum height of five feet eight inches, and weight of at least 165 pounds; 21 to 35 years of age; high school graduate or equivalent; U. S. citizen; resident of Ohio, top physical condition and good moral character. The applicant may be either married or single.

Those appointed to the training school will receive $176 per month plus maintenance during the 14-week course. Graduates receive immediate appointments to the rank of patrolman at the starting salary of $315 and annual pay increases.

Cpl. DeWalt stressed the necessity of immediate action for those interested in joining the Patrol since each applicant must be thoroughly investigated and pass physical and aptitude tests as well as a screening board before he is accepted. No knowledge of police work is required.

Applications may be made in person at the Marion post, or at any patrol post in the state.

National City And Caledonia Banks Merge

Union Gives Marion Institution Its Fifth Branch in the County

Merger of the National City Bank of Marion and the Caledonia Banking Co. was approved by shareholders of both banks at special meetings held Tuesday afternoon.

Paul Bachman, vice president of the National City Bank, said that 88.75 per cent of the shareholders of the Marion bank were represented at the meeting and voted unanimously to ratify and confirm the merger. He reported that 84 per cent of the shareholders of the Caledonia bank were represented and they also voted unanimously to approve the merger.

Second Merger

This marks the second merger of the National City Bank in slightly more than a year. In April, 1955, the Marion bank and the Prospect Citizens Bank merged by consent of the shareholders of both banks.

Tuesday's merger increased the assets of the National City Bank to some 30 million dollars, of which about two million were added by the Caledonia Banking Co.

It gives the local bank a total of five branches in addition to its main offices at Main and Center Sts. in Marion. The five branches, including the newly acquired Caledonia branch, are Waldo, Prospect, Green Camp and West Town located on W. Center St. in Marion. Both the Waldo and West Town branches were opened by National City Bank and involved no mergers with other banks.

In addition to approving the merger Tuesday, the National City shareholders approved an increase in the common stock of the bank, voted to elect N. D. Hill, president of the Caledonia Bank, a member of the National City board of directors and re-elected all other members of the board of directors. Mr. Hill will continue as manager of the Caledonia branch.

New Shares Approved

Shareholders approved increasing the common stock of the local bank from $748,000 to $800,000 by the sale of 2,600 additional shares. Each of the additional shares will have a par value of $20 and will sell at $50 a share. The shareholders of record at the time the merger of the two banks becomes effective will have the right to purchase these additional shares in proportion to their common stock holdings at the time of the effective date of the merger.

Mr. Bachman said it could not yet be stated what the effective date will be because this is controlled by the federal comptroller of the currency in Washington. Papers showing approval of the merger by the shareholders of the two bank were sent to Washington immediately after the Tuesday meetings and a reply setting the effective date is expected within a week or ten days, Mr. Bachman said.

Other directors re-elected to their posts at Tuesday's meeting were: A. J. Berry, Carl E. Danner, Frank M. Foster, B. H. Gast, Howard F. Guthery, Philip E. Guthery, A. E. Haberman, Joseph L. Halberstein, F. D. Loudenslager, Ed Ruth, J. J. Stafford, H. J. Swink and Robert E. White.

Gunman, Two Aides Charged With Murder

Trio at Toledo Held After Deputy and Girl Are Killed in Chase

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A robber fleeing from a filling station shot and killed a deputy sheriff who tried to stop him Tuesday, and then ran down a young woman and a blind man with his car. The woman was killed and the blind man was critically injured.

The gunman, John Bowens, 35, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and two companions in a wild automobile flight that started near Port Clinton east of here, all were charged with first degree murder in the death of the deputy.

Police said Bowens shot Deputy Ray Westover, 35, father of three children, when the deputy halted his car because of an alert by state highway Patrolman Robert Newell.

Continues Fight

Then, continuing his flight, Bowens swerved to avoid a final roadblock in front of St. Charles Hospital and his car hit the woman and the blind man.

The woman, Ann Marie Martin, 19, was an X-ray student at the hospital.

She had been leading another hospital employe, blind Jay Francis, 31, across the street.

Francis, suffering a fractured pelvis, was reported in fair condition.

Newell, who said he saw Bowens shoot Westover, stayed behind at the shooting scene and took the other two men to police headquarters. They were identified as Walter Bryant, 32, of New York City, and Phillip Rowell, 24, of Philadelphia.

Homicide Capt. Edward Meeker said Rowell admitted later that he had a part in the robbery of the filling station operated by Edward Young, 14 miles west of Port Clinton on Ohio 2.

Meeker quoted Rowell as saying he stayed in the car while Bowens and Bryant went into the station.

Young told police two men took $70 from him and left him tied on the floor.

Shortly after that, Newell spotted the speeding car and gave chase in his cruiser.

Rowell said he and his pals thought the chase was because of the robbery.

Three men had held up the night clerk of a motel on the southeast side of greater Cleveland early Tuesday, and the clerk left late Tuesday for Toledo to see if he could identify the trio held here.

Robert Cooley, 26, the night clerk, said the men got $67 from the cash drawer of the Turfside Motel on Northfield Road in Warrensville Heights and $22 from his pocket.

Cooley reported he was bound hand and foot and taken on a 10-minute ride in the robbers' car. He was dumped out in another Cleveland suburb, Shaker Heights, and called police.

One man held a gun on him and threatened to kill him, the clerk said.

He was accompanied to Toledo by the Warrensville chief of police, Melvin Shurmer.

off the ground by sliding building blocks beneath it. Two wreckers were called to the scene by patrolmen but the two youths had been removed before they arrived.

The Wolfe boy was not pinned under the car and was standing when ambulance arrived. He was in a state of shock and had not been able to answer any questions, patrolmen said.

The injured youths were taken to the hospital in Gunder and Boyd ambulances.

Auto Strikes Cow

A cow which ran into the path of an oncoming car escaped injury but the auto which struck the animal Tuesday was moderately damaged. The accident was the only one investigated during the day Tuesday by state patrolmen from the Marion post.

Patrolmen said the mishap happened on Route 37 one and three-tenths miles south of LaRue about 3:15 Tuesday afternoon. The auto was driven north on the highway by Glendon F. Rayburn, 30, of near LaRue, patrolmen reported.

Officers said the cow was being led south on the road by Mrs. Rebecca Hay and her son, Daniel. Patrolmen said that when the car approached the animal apparently became frightened and ran across the roadway into the path of the auto.

Marion Girl Hurt

This was one of two accidents investigated by patrolmen. City police reported three.

A six-year-old Marion girl was slightly injured Tuesday afternoon when she ran into the path of a car on Cheney Ave. The accident was one of three reported Tuesday night by Marion police.

Injured was Connie Lynn Blanton of 787 Gill Ave. Police said she was struck when she ran into the path of a car driven by Forrest D. Currin of near Galion in the 700 block of Cheney Ave. at 3:39 Tuesday afternoon.

The girl was taken to the office of a private physician where she was treated and released. She suffered minor arm and leg injuries.

Police said a three-vehicle accident happened at the corner of State and Center Sts. at 4:09 p.m. Tuesday but details on the mishap were not available immediately. Police said they understood a truck struck the rear of a car and pushed it forward into the rear of another truck but the drivers were not identified.

The other accident investigated by police involved damage estimated by officers at less than $100.

In Colt League activity, Moose downed the Moulders 5-2 and Fraternal Order of Police won 8-3 over Elks Lodge. Two tallies in the sixth gave Moose its win. The second game, was highlighted by the first home runs of the season in Colt League play. Joe Welty hit one for FOP and Walters collected one for the losers.

Buckeye State Pays Homage To War Dead

Ohio Joining Nation In Observance; Big Parades To Mark Day

By The Associated Press

The solemn tread of marchers will be heard in many areas of Ohio today as the Buckeye State honors its countless dead of many wars.

Most normal business ceases as the state joins the rest of the nation for the annual observance of Memorial Day.

Veterans and men and women now in the armed services will take part in traditional parades symbolizing memories of lost comrades.

Millions on Highways

Traffic law enforcement officials expected the state highways to be choked as millions turn out for their first spring midweek holiday of the year.

Motorists were warned, however, to expect stern enforcement of traffic laws in the drive to hold holiday deaths to a minimum.

These were some of the plans of Ohio metropolitan areas for Memorial Day:

At Cleveland, more than 4,000 marchers were expected to take part in the annual downtown parade. Maj. Gen. Paul E. Ruestow, commander of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, will be the principal speaker at memorial services at Public Hall. For those who fought at sea, Cleveland Navy Ship Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a service on Lake Erie. Memorial services will be held at 103 Greater Cleveland cemeteries. The Fourth Wing of the Ohio Civil Air Patrol will drop flowers over six of the cemeteries as part of the observances.

Cincinnati Parade

At Cincinnati, 50 military and civic organizations will participate in a gigantic parade sponsored by the Hamilton County Memorial Assn. Gov. Lausche will speak at services at Hickory Flat Cemetery at Hamilton following a parade there.

At Columbus, a downtown parade will begin at 9 a.m.

At Springfield, the day will be observed with a morning parade and an address at Ferncliff Cemetery's Soldier's Mound. Veterans will decorate the grave of Revolutionary War veteran, Samuel Lippincott, at Asbury Cemetery in nearby North Hampton.

make a study of the deficiencies created by sewers too small for the volume of sewage they must carry, the committeemen were advised.

Members of the firm also outlined the steps planned for making a study of the storm water sewers which will begin after the topographical maps arrive, Wayne Kuhn, a representative of the engineering firm, said.

Sewer committeemen attending the meeting were Herman Rinehart, chairman; John Courtright and Robert G. Haldeman. Members of the engineering firm attending were Mr. Kuhn, Al Raulins and C. R. Martin.

Railroad Veteran Has Many Fond Memories

FAIRVIEW, Ill. (AP) — Charles A. Ekstrand, 83-year-old retired railroader, remembers when the "Peavine Railroad" was an important "slim" gauge link between Galesburg to West Havana, Ill.

The 61-mile Fulton County Narrow Gauge Railway commenced operation in 1878 in the Spoon River Valley. The road was changed to a standard gauge line on Oct. 15, 1905, when 450 workmen converted the tracks on a Sunday.

Ekstrand says the "Peavine" got its nickname from the fact that it had 183 curves to make it one of the crookedest roads to be found in its heyday. He retired in 1941 after 51 years of railroading.

Official Ohio Primary Tally Reveals Drop

Only Fifth of State's Eligible Voters Go to Polls, Brown Reports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Barely a fifth of Ohio's potential voters cast ballots in the May 8 primary elections.

Official figures released Tuesday by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown showed that 650,131 Republicans and 572,332 Democrats took part in nomination decisions.

The total of 1,222,463 probably will be increased slightly, Brown said, when those who voted for issues, but not for candidates, are included.

Ohio's potential voters approximate 5,812,000, Brown estimated. Before the elections, Brown figured that 1,487,900 would vote; 913,000 Republicans and 574,900 Democrats.

Total Vote Drops

In the previous presidential election year primaries four years ago, 1,535,055 Ohioans voted. The total included 936,574 Republicans and 598,348 Democrats plus a few hundred who voted only on issues.

The total vote dropped this year despite the large number of contestants in several statewide races. Most nominees in each party, who will fight it out for the pay-off election Nov. 6, won by wide margins.

An exception was the Republican race for the attorney general nomination. William Saxbe of Mechanicsburg, former Ohio House speaker, emerged the winner by a margin of 3,371 over runner-up Harry T. Marshall veteran Cleveland councilman.

Four-Way Race

Saxbe polled 160,323 votes to Marshall's 156,952. Two others in the four-way race ran out. Chalmers P. Wylie, Columbus city attorney, got 122,132 votes. J. Eugene Roberts, Hubbard attorney, had 73,221.

Saxbe will face Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, the Democratic nominee, in November. Young, former congressman, polled 208,235 votes to beat four other contestants for nomination.

Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, Marietta Republican, and Michael V. DiSalle, Toledo Democrat, ran away with nominations for governor.

O'Neill, former House speaker, amassed 425,947 votes to 161,826 for Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, former Medina mayor, in their two-way test.

DiSalle Tops Field

DiSalle, former federal price stabilizer, polled 279,831 votes in a five-man scramble. Cleveland Municipal Judge John E. Sweeney was runner-up with 106,071.

Totals for the other democrats: Robert W. Reider, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative, 41,224; Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown 37,290 and Oscar L. Fleckner, Columbus shoe company executive and former state liquor director, 23,081.

On the republican side, Secretary of State Brown polled 516,741 votes for the largest total. He was unopposed for a fourth term nomination. Runner-up was U.S. Sen. George H. Bender of Cleveland with 509,682. He also lacked primary opposition. Unopposed state Auditor James A. Rhodes got 508,150.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, unopposed for the democratic U.S. senatorial nomination, led his party ticket with 426,631 votes. Runner-up was Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court with 350,905. Weygandt was unopposed for a fifth six-year term in that post.

Steel

Vice President John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel, also present at the news conference, said: "This is not industrywide bargaining; it is a joint effort to reach an early settlement."

McDonald said he believes "this method will enable us to get to grips with the important issues more quickly."

John Morse will represent Bethlehem. Republic will be represented by Patrick Patton and U. S. Steel will be represented by Stephens.

The USW president said the joint conferences would not bar the door to individual bargaining with other steel companies. However, he said it is not likely that they will be meeting on any major scale. In the past negotiations with other steel companies usually were sidetracked while the union talked with U. S. Steel.

Decision to move the meetings to New York June 6 was "a matter of general convenience," McDonald said. Stephens added that New York City is "neutral territory."

Bricker, Bender Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's Republican senators, George Bender and John W. Bricker, disagreed in their vote Tuesday as the Senate amended its version of the highway bill to approve a federal prevailing wage provision).

Bender voted for the amendment and Bricker against. It was passed by the Senate by a 42-37 rollcall vote.

Highways

ironed out by a conference committee.

First Test Strength

The bewildering series of Senate votes was the first test of strength on the mammoth highway bill, which calls for, in the Senate version, 37 billion dollars worth of federal-state roadbuilding over the next 13 years. It also provides for a wide range of tax increases on highway users to pay for it.

There were a number of switches and changes in the two key votes on rate-fixing authority.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) missed the first vote but voted against the Chavez provision.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) did not vote on the first test but was paired for it and then switched to support the Chavez provision.

Accept Amendment

After the controversy over the wage issue, the Senate quickly adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) directing the secretary of commerce to undertake a highway safety study.

The study would be directed specifically at determining what action the federal government could take to promote increased safety on the highways. A report would have to be submitted not later than June 30, 1957.

Knowland contended during the wage debate that the states were best fitted to set the wage rates.

Sens. Kerr (D-Okla), Gore (D-Tenn) and Kuchel (R-Calif), arguing against Knowland's proposal, said that in many states there was no authority for the highway departments to fix wage rates. These departments are the agencies named to do the job in the Knowland amendment.

Would Mean Extra Session

Kerr said the effect would be that some states could not even participate in the program until they called their legislatures into session to set up the necessary machinery.

Other senators favoring the Chavez amendment argued that the federal government would pay 90 per cent of the cost of the 25 billion dollar interstate system and that therefore the wage rates should be up to the secretary of labor.

The Senate met two hours earlier than usual Tuesday, to get an early start on the highway legislation. But quorum calls to round up absent members consumed most of the extra time.

Congressional passage of the highway bill will inaugurate the biggest peacetime public works program in the nation's history.

In addition to the interstate road system, expansion of three other federal aid systems would be authorized. These are the primary, farm-to-market and urban roads.

Vote

Around the halfway point, Stevenson was stepping ahead of Kefauver in Miami and Dade County and in Jacksonville and Duval County—both regarded as areas where Kefauver was rated highly.

Balloting generally followed forecasts—light and slow—in the early hours.

With the bitter, drawn-out campaigning ended, Kefauver flew the route Stevenson had taken a day earlier, to California and the last primary battle of 1956 a week from Tuesday.

Each Seeks Majority

Each candidate was hoping and predicting he would come out of the Florida primary with a victory, a majority of 28 delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention in August and a psychological boost toward winning in California.

Florida Republicans were more or less going through the motions Tuesday, packaging together 26 votes for their national convention and handing them over to President Eisenhower.

This didn't mean much, because the President already has far more delegates than he needs to guarantee his nomination.

Most of the Eisenhower strength in Florida is concentrated among Eisenhower Democrats rather than registered Republicans. Enough of them deserted their own party in 1952 to sweep Eisenhower to a Florida victory over Stevenson in the general election, 544,036 to 444,950.

The Eisenhower Democrats couldn't vote for Eisenhower in Tuesday's primary. Party line jumping is forbidden, along with write-in balloting.

Figures show 1,277,022 Democratic and 162,409 Republican registrations in Florida.

Ike Busy on Holiday

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower flew here Tuesday from Washington for an overnight visit at his country home.

The President planned to fly back to Washington early Wednesday. The White House said he will have a schedule of business engagements despite the Memorial Day holiday.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Kroger Co. Tuesday reported a record total of $555,260,971 of sales for the first 20 weeks of 1956. That was an increase of $132,794,480 over sales of $422,466,491 for 1955, the company said.

Record high sales of $115,043,797 were reported for the four-week period ended May 19, 1956. The previous record for four weeks was for the 13th period of 1955, when sales totaled $113,900,888, the announcement said.

Sales for the four-week period were $28,219,987 more than the the $86,823,810 for the same time a year ago, according to the report, up 33 per cent.

"This keeps pace with the increase in sales to date for the year, which show a 31 per cent increase over 1956," Kroger declared.

Pastor Sentenced On Theft Charges

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The Rev. George F. Davis, 56, pastor of the nondenominational Hinsdale Christian Church, which he founded, Tuesday was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction for larceny of religious articles from other churches. He also was placed on probation for four years.

He was arrested April 28 by police investigating the theft of a gold crucifix from an Episcopal church.

Investigators said more than 300 religious articles were recovered in the Rev. Mr. Davis' home, his church and the home of a parishioner, including a bishop's ring taken from Fond du Lac, Wis., where the Rev. Mr. Davis was an Episcopal clergyman. He formerly was a Congregational minister in Hinsdale.

Federal Jury Is Recessed in Canton Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—A federal jury deliberated an hour and a half Tuesday and then was sent home for the holiday in the trial of Pete Pappas, 26, Canton, on white slave charges.

The nine men and three women will resume their deliberations Thursday morning. The trial is in Judge James C. Connell's court.

The specific charge against Pappas was that on Dec. 28, 1954, he took Arlene V. Getz, 20, from Canton to Warwood, W.Va., for immoral purposes. He denied the charge.

Miss Getz testified Pappas induced her to go to Warwood and said she spent a month in a hotel there, turning over to Pappas her earnings of $75 to $100 a night. She also testified that later she spent a month in Steubenville, Ohio, as a prostitute working for him.

The defense contended Miss Getz had been befriended by Pappas and his mother, but grew angry at them and threatened to "get even." Pappas declared that he and his mother drove Miss Getz to Steubenville at the young woman's own request.

Wide-Row Corn Planting Makes Debut in County

Zenas Kline of Claridon Township Sees Real Saving in Method

There are an increasing number of farmers in the country getting behind the advocates of planting corn in wide rows in ground that has been plowed but never worked down in the conventional style.

According to the magazine Farm Journal, one Wisconsin farmer hasn't touched his corn ground with a disc or harrow for two years. He has records to prove having harvested 124 bushels per acre in 1954, and 106 bushels last year.

A Michigan farmer uses only a tiller behind his plow and raised 120 bushels per acre last year. A Minnesota man harrowed his ground after plowing, never put a disc in the field, and reaped a 138-bushel-per-acre harvest last year, the magazine reports.

Says the Farm Journal: "The idea has been tested by several colleges, and farmers from New York to Iowa have tried it."

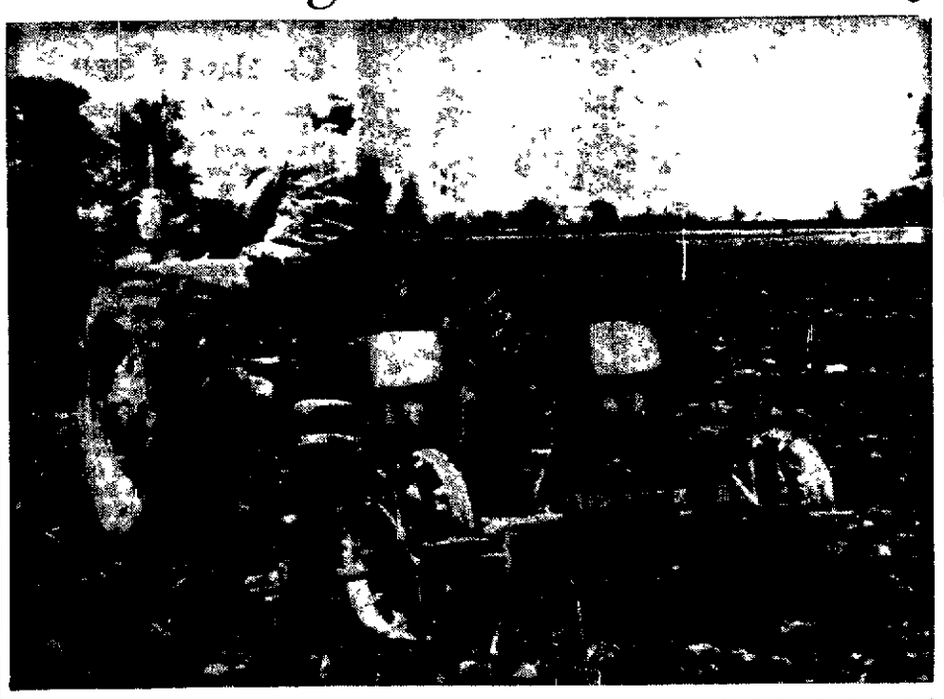
THIS SPRING AN Ohioan got into the act. What's more, he's a Marion County farmer, operating slightly over 100 acres in Claridon Township off Route 30-S about five miles east of Marion. Zenas Kline is his name and he's pretty well convinced that planting behind the plow is both an economical and justifiable means of getting corn planted.

Mr. Kline was, you might say, backed by circumstances into trying this new corn-planting scheme. His farm is long and narrow. That is to say, his 100 acres are not too deep, but they border the highway for a considerable distance. Consequently, Mr. Kline was faced with the prospect of having to travel Route 30-S with his farm machinery to work one 40-acre tract. He was determined not to have to take that chance, so decided to put the entire 40-acres into corn and to plan on making it a permanent crop.

Now corn is relatively hard on ground and Mr. Kline knew that the fertility of his soil would soon be sapped with corn the annual crop. In casting about for a way to raise it year after year and still maintain the soil's fertility, he hit upon the plan of planting in wide rows without working the ground after the plow. The solution, it seemed obvious, was not only to plant behind the plow, thus insuring that the soil would not be "worked to death," but to plant in wide rows so that cover crops could be seeded between the rows, to be plowed under in the spring for green manure.



NEW PLAN IN ACTION. Well along with probably the first "planting behind the plow" method attempted in Marion County, Zenas Kline is shown operating his made-over corn planter for the 60-inch rows. The right rear wheel of the tractor follows the marker line down the field, instead of the front wheels, as in the conventional style of planting. Mr. Kline plans to put the corn in the ground within 12 hours after it has been plowed. Only a web-foot roller, pulled behind the plow, preceded the planter into this 40-acre field in Claridon Township.

Mr. Kline lost no time formulating his plan and by Saturday had completed planting the 40 acres, wide rows and all. What steps did he take? First he top dressed the ground with 400 pounds of 12-12-12 fertilizer per acre. Then, while planting he added 200 pounds of 6-36-0 in the row. He planted in 60-inch rows, having made over his planter to suit the purpose. The corn was drilled in, with an average of 18 kernels to every 8 feet, or approximately a kernel every five inches.

PRIOR TO planting, he broke the ground to a depth of nine inches, with a web-foot roller behind the plow the only equipment to preceed the planter into the field.

After the corn is laid by, Mr. Kline plans to seed sweet clover or rye grass between the rows. Says he: "The corn will be ahead of the weeds because of the ground having been plowed so late and I shouldn't have to cultivate it much before it is at least 12 inches tall. Then I'll go into the field with spray, and perhaps have to cultivate once.

What is the big advantage to this planting-behind-the-plow in wide rows notion? "I'll save my ground by not working it to powder; I'll get almost the same yield of corn by dropping the kernels closer together than would be the case with 40-inch rows; I'll have to go over the ground only a fraction of the number of times that would be required for a variety of crops; and I've got land that I can continually keep in one crop with assurance that the fertility will not be destroyed," Mr. Kline declares.

YET THERE ARE, it seems likely, some disadvantages to the idea, the biggest of which is the necessity of plowing the corn one row at a time. Too, unless a better-than-average job of breaking the ground is done, trash may not be covered sufficiently to allow good cultivation. In addition, present farm planters and cultivators are not adapted to wide-row planting, and must be made over to suit individual needs.

However, soil conservationists and agricultural extension agents are wholly in favor of the method. They point out that the soil structure is left almost intact when soil is not continually worked and worked prior to planting. Also, the soil is assured of proper aeriation and the moisture content is not lowered appreciably, as is the case where a seedbed is excessively prepared.

On the other hand, work required is, apparently, much less utilizing this new method. Mr. Kline figures he should be able to get his land ready, plant the corn, cultivate it, seed the cover crops and harvest the corn all with only five times over the field.

CAUTIONS THE OHIO Farm and Home Research bulletin: "There may be some who visualize a program of continuous corn in wide spaces with an interplanted plow-down crop every year We must not forget that the system of crop rotation has grown out of long experience and much trial and error. On the error side are many soils that get out of tilth under annual plowing, and also there are fields where wireworms, cutworms, or other parasites may become highly destructive to unrotated corn."

At all events, Mr. Kline is willing to pioneer the idea in Marion county and perhaps he will be pleased with the results Whatever the net results, one thing is certain, i. e., he won't have to travel the highway so often with farm machinery. Whatever else he derives from the practice may well help determine the methods of corn planting in Ohio in years to come.

FFA Judges Will Compete June 1

COLUMBUS — Ohio's top FFA land judging teams will compete in a state-wide contest here June 1.

Forty-five three-member teams which have won high ratings in area competition will participate, according to Samuel W. Bone, Ohio State University extension agronomist. Judging will take place on three sites near the university farms.

In the contest, teams will observe different types of soils, note soil characteristics and work out management and cropping systems to fit each soil condition.

The top three teams will receive plaques and cash awards and the first place team will get an expense-paid trip to the national land judging contest in 1957.

The event is sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, division of lands and soils; the Soil Conservation Service, the Agricultural Extension Service and the Vocational Agriculture department.

Brucellosis Tests Again Scheduled in Crawford

BUCYRUS — A second series of county-wide brucellosis tests of dairy cows will be started in Crawford County June 4, under the direction of Dr. C. W. Bashore, Shelby veterinarian and area representative of the state veterinarian's office.

The portable laboratory will be located at the county fairgrounds in Bucyrus and members of the county dairy board will call on each farm in their township to explain the program and leave a bottle for the farmer to collect a sample of milk.

A "ring" test will be run on each sample at the laboratory and if the test shows a positive reaction, the farmer will be notified that there is brucellosis in his herd. A local veterinarian then will visit the farm and draw a blood sample from each animal for slaughter since the disease is contagious and may cause undulant fever in humans.

Cincinnati Area Hit By Electrical Storm

CINCINNATI (AP)—A violent rain, wind and electrical storm struck the Greater Cincinnati area Tuesday afternoon.

Firemen were called to at least 10 homes in answer to reports that they had been struck by lightning. One automobile was struck, a smoke stack was destroyed and electrical service was interrupted in nearby Foster, Rossmoyne, St. Bernard and Cheviot.

The rain fell so hard for 10 minutes and the haze was so heavy that large buildings in the downtown area could not be seen several blocks away.

More than half of America's 14 million people over 65 years old have some form of public or private retirement income available.

Farm Bureau Hits Membership High

COLUMBUS — Membership in the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation has reached a four year high of 50,108 Ohio farm families.

In announcing that the organization had surpassed its 1956 goal, L. William Steck, Westerville, supervisor of member relations, said that OFBF had already gained 1,300 members over 1955.

Nationally, the Ohio Farm Bureau is the second state unit affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation to reach its 1956 membership goal. Mississippi announced the close of its successful campaign last week.

Fifty-fve Ohio counties so far have reached their goal, Steck said. There are 86 county Farm Bureaus in the 88 counties.

OHIO FARMERS to receive 2¢ per gallon refund for gasoline used on the farm!
A bill making farmers exempt from the 2c per gallon federal excise tax on gasoline and special fuel used on the farm was passed by Congress on March 28, 1956.
The refund to Ohio farmers will total over 2¼ million dollars annually. It will reduce the individual farm gasoline bill in the state by 10%, based on present prices for regular gasoline
In March, 1955, Farm Bureau, on behalf of its farmer members and patrons, initiated action for repeal of the 2c federal tax on gasoline used by all farmers in their farm work.
At that time little hope was held that Farm Bureau would successfully accomplish its goal. However, success came with the passage of Bill H.R. 8780 in March of this year.
It's a record of accomplishment through cooperation
This is another example of how Farm Bureau is working in the interests of you and other Ohio farmers. It offers another good reason for supporting your Farm Bureau Federation and your local Farm Bureau Cooperative. It's simply a matter of progress — attained by working together.
TO GET YOUR REFUND . . .
fill out Form 2240 . . . available at any Farm Bureau Cooperative.
First refunds will cover gasoline and special fuels purchased and used on farms after December 30, 1955.
To get your refund, you will have to file a claim —after June 30 and before October 1—showing gasoline used during the first six months of this year.
Claims are to be made on Form 2240, which must be filed with the United States District Director of Internal Revenue for your district.
You may also request a refund on gasoline which is used on your farm by a custom operator or neighbor in connection with cultivating or raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity.
In future years, claims will cover an entire fiscal year—July 1 to June 30.
Copies of Form 2240 will be available June 1. Farm Bureau patrons will receive necessary forms from their Fyr-zon petroleum servicemen. All farmers may pick up forms at local Farm Bureau Cooperatives.

Bloat Problem Is Increasing, Experts Claim

Coarse Roughage Is Best Way To Prevent This Dread Malady

Bloat is an age-old problem on farms and yet losses still occur because of it. With the more widespread use of legumes, it has, indeed, become an increasingly serious problem. Animals have been known to die within a half hour after being stricken, pointing up the urgent necessity for combatting the problem and preventing heavy losses.

Bloat is, inessence, excessive gas pressure in the rumen or first stomach of cattle and sheep. The gas expands until normal contractions are reduced. How does this gas get there?

Normal digestion of feeds always produces some gas in the stomach, most of which, ordinarily, is released by belching. This belching is usually aided by the presence in the stomach of coarse roughage. But, gas is not readily released if the stomach is filled with a low fiber forage such as clover which sometimes packs so solidly as to close the opening into the stomach. Most farmers are familiar with the fact that legume pastures, wet with rain, dew or frost, are most likely to cause bloat.

Another form of bloat, aside from that attained in open pasture, is that contracted in the feedlot in cattle on a high corn or concentrate ration. This bloat, a foamy gas, begins to develop when the concentrate ratio reaches about 5 per cent of the total feed consumed. As with cattle on legume pasture, the best preventive measure is to include coarse hay or other roughage in the ration.

What can be done if bloat is noticed in cows or sheep? The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station lists the steps to be taken as follows: 1, do not move the animal; 2, drench with from one pint to one quart of warm milk; 3, give one to two ounces of baking soda in a pint of warm water; 4, a stiff hose one-half inch in diameter may be shoved into the stomach to allow the gas to escape; and 5, in severe cases, where immediate relief is necessary to save the animal, the animal may be stuck with a knife or trocar and a tube inserted at the highest point of dissension just in front and slightly above the point of the left hip. These steps, however, cannot guarantee results and an ounce of prevention — coarse roughage — is worth several pounds of the above mentioned cure, the agricultural service points out.

Cautions the expert on bloat symptoms and treatment: "Never turn hungry cattle on lush legume pasture. First fill them with hay. Then sit back and feel secure in the knowledge that your profits will not suffer serious cuts through unnecessary losses."

Home Economist

Miss Gussie Smith

Subject to approval of Ohio State University's board of trustees, Miss Gussie Smith of Springfield, Tenn., is Marion County's new Extension Home Economics Agent, effective July 1, according to Archie Cochran, chairman of the county extension advisory committee.

Miss Smith succeeds Mrs. Norwood Tupps, employed on a part-time basis since March 1. A native of Tennessee, Miss Smith has been in extension service for 20 years. She is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, took post-graduate work at Columbia University and for the last nine years has been home demonstration agent in Tennessee's Robertson County.

Marion County Sheep Dipping Starts June 17

The Marion County Sheep Improvement Committee is again sponsoring the sheep dipping program in the county this year, according to Ellwood Parrott, county extension agent.

The dipping schedule is slated to begin June 17, with a program set up calling for definite areas of the county to be covered at given times to prevent too much backtracking.

Every Flock Dipped

The Oberdier Bros., of LaRue, will do the work again, with the cost the same as in 1955. They will dip every flock of sheep, regardless of size, Mr. Parrott says, and 4-H and FFA youngsters are especially urged to have their flocks treated.

Cooper's Dip is the agent to be used, a solution highly recommended by Ohio State University's agriculture extension service. It is specifically designed to control ticks, lice and fly stroke.

Sheepmen are gradually realizing the importance of dipping their flocks every year, Mr. Parrott declares, and records indicate that flocks thus treated usually are healthier and more productive.

Damages the Wool

The sheep tick is a sucking insect that sets up an irritation in the skin. The result is that the sheep tries to rub the irritation away and in so doing damages the wool. Lice, both the biting and sucking varieties, produce similar effects on sheep with like results.

Anyone interested in having their flocks dipped may get on the schedule by writing or calling the county extension office, according to Mr. Parrott.

Farmers Have Choice When Buying Fertilizer

Today's farmers have an option when they purchase fertilizer. They can buy either the conventional dry type or the newer liquid brands. The choice, apparently, rests with the convenience in handling one or the other. The price is about the same per pound of actual nutrient, regardless of which type the farmer operator prefers to buy.

However, tests at Iowa State College show that as far as the nutrients supplied by these two different forms of fertilizer are concerned, there is no difference in the influence on crop yields. Tests comparing liquid and dry fertilizers have been, to date, somewhat limited, but results thus far indicate no particular difference in net results.

Liquid fertilizers are intended for soil application and not as foliar sprays, however, and are particularly adapted for use as row applications for corn or for broadcast spray on application prior to the seeding of oats and legumes.

U.S. Surplus Aids Jap School Lunch Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will provide Japan with about 15 million dollars in wheat and powdered milk to expand the Japanese school lunch program.

The International Cooperation Administration, announcing the program, said Japan will pay the shipping costs for the milk and wheat.

The shipments, to be made during the next year, will be part of a planned four-year program under which Japan would receive a total of 37½ million dollars of the two products, the ICA said.

Ounce of Prevention

The best way to get rid of milk fever is to prevent it, advises dairy specialists. And, the best way to prevent it in most cows is to feed those that are dry a ration low in calcium and high in phosphorus. This practice, begun about a month before calving, may save more than one high-producing animal.

Visitors to U.S national parks increased from 380,000 in 1916 to about 50 million in 1955.

June Is Month To Look for 5 Major Insects

With this year's crop season well under way, entomologists are warning that June is the month to be on the lookout for insects and to take first steps to eliminate them before irreparable damage can be done.

Five primary pests will make their annual appearance early next month and they are listed, together with control measures as follows:

Corn Borer — Hatching of the first brood of these corn-crop destroyers will begin in Ohio early in the month, with "pin hole" feeding marks in the youngest leaves following soon after. Sweet corn should be sprayed immediately after hatching commences, with DDT applied four times at five-day intervals. It is considered unprofitable to spray corn being grown for feeding purposes.

Armyworms — These insects are not expected to be present in significant numbers this year, but spotted infestations may be found in dense growths of rye, wheat, timothy or brome grass. They will be in evidence between the 10th and 15th of June and can be controlled with applications of toxaphene, 1 and ¾ pounds, or dieldrin, ¼ pound actual toxicant per acre.

Weevils — Grain bins may be sprayed with a five per cent solution of DDT or methoxychlor to prevent extensive weevil damage to wheat. Elevator men point out that wheat carrying more than one per cent of weevil damage after July 1 is subject to rejection for milling into flour and must be graded as livestock feed.

Warbles — Cattle running in open pastures indicate one thing, i. e., adult flies or cattle grubs are chasing them. Flies lay eggs on the hair of the hind legs near the heel. The grub lives inside the animal's body for eight or nine months and is a $100,000,000 pest. About 35 per cent of the animals slaughtered in the spring are found to be grub infested. The best treatment may soon be a phosphorus insecticide injected into the animal. Spraying with any fly repellent is the present preventive method of controlling warbles or grubs.

Flies — Sprays for these pests this year will carry either diazinon or malathion. A supplementary control may be baits or poisoned smears.

There are other bothersome insects and pests to contend with, but entomologists consider the five above the ones which may be the most serious this year and which should be controlled virtually as soon as they appear.

Borer May Be Doomed

The European corn borer, the most destructive scourge of corn farmers, may be a thing of the past in years to come if present experiments prove successful.

Scientists working at Ankeny, Iowa, are developing strains of corn able to resist attack by this crop enemy. They expect to be ready to release such corn to growers by 1960

Time Near To Vaccinate For Sleeping Sickness

A warning against the approaching dangers of sleeping sickness in horses and mules has been issued by the American Foundation of Animal Health.

"Prompt action should be taken to protect horses and mules against this disease, caused by biting insects," the Foundation says.

Vaccination by a veterinarian is the only certain way of preventing the disease and both horses and mules should be immunized each year. The symptoms resemble those of heat stroke, rabies and several other ailments, and an accurate diagnosis is of primary importance, the Foundation cautions.

Losses among unvaccinated animals have been known to run as high as 6 per cent and afflicted animals should be isolated under insect-free conditions to prevent mosquitoes and other carriers from spreading the disease further.

Southern Baptists Set To Open 4-Day Parley

By ED L. CAMPBELL

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baptist ministers were warned Tuesday night against attempting to cure mental illness

Dr. R. Lofton Hudson, Kansas City pastor, author and columnist, told the Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference that preachers can help victims of mental distress most by steering them in the direction of help from other sources.

The pastors' meeting was one of the final preliminaries to the opening Wednesday of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The executive committee of the SBC met throughout the day drafting its recommendations to be offered for approval by the estimated 15,000 here for the four-day meet. Convention action is not binding on the 30,000 churches which make up the denomination but generally is followed closely by them.

The executive committee refused, after an hour's debate, to vote either for or against a resolution proposing a court challenge of constitutionality of the Hill-Burton Act for federal aid in construction of hospitals by religious groups. The court action was urged by the Rev. Henry Lyons of Montgomery, president of the Alabama Baptist Convention. A committee spokesman said the issue arose in Montgomery over a hospital to be built there by Alabama Baptists.

The Lyons resolution said the Roman Catholic Church in the United States already had received more than 100 million dollars hospital construction aid under 1955 appropriations. It asserted such appropriations appeared to be a violation of the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state.

Dr. Walter Pope Binns, president of William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., said any vote by the committee might be considered an attack by Baptists on other churches. The executive committee voted as a substitute for the Lyons resolution to have its public affairs committee make a thorough study of the Hill-Burton Act and report later.

Bridegroom Balks, Refuses at Altar

PARIS (INS) — "Monsieur Francois Blanquet, do you take Mademoiselle Francois Bleiron as your lawful wedded wife?"

"No."

This dialogue took place in the City Hall of Orleans, about 65 miles south of Paris. The deputy mayor who was officiating, and the 60 wedding guests were dumbfounded.

The father of the bride was the fist to take action. He slapped the bridegroom in the face.

The groom's own two sisters followed suit, but Blanquet accepted the blows without changing expression.

The tearful bride was led away and the 60-place wedding dinner at a leading Orleans restaurant was cancelled. Doctors examined Blanquet, diagnosed a nervous depression and ordered a two-week hospital rest.

The bride's family bluntly said he was crazy.

Young Blanquet was known as a brilliant wood sculptor who worked in the medieval style. His father said Blanquet was a sensitive artist — who disliked his wife-to-be's father.

"He loves the girl," Blanquet Senior said, "But the thought of getting into a family like that was just too much for him."

Crestline Hospital Given Ford Grant

CRESTLINE — Crestline's Emergency Hospital is one of 3,500 nonprofit hospitals in the United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico to receive first payments in the Ford Foundation's $200 million program to help hospitals improve and expand their services

The Crestline Hospital Association has been granted a total of $11,600, of which $5,800 has already been received. The money is to be used to purchase equipment for the new 35-bed Memorial Hospital presently under construction in Crestline, according to hospital authorities.

Grants from the foundation range in size from $10,000 to $250,000, with amounts in each case determined on the basis of patient days of service and number of births in each hospital.

By the end of July, all participating units will have received half their payments. The remaining half will be paid in March, 1957.

Natural gas is used in 22 million American homes and 2 million industrial plants.

2 Monroe County Jail Escapees Still at Large

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two inmates sawed their way out of a first-floor cell at the Monroe County Jail early Tuesday and escaped. They are Alfred Mellott, 22, Clarington, held as a parole violator, and Paul Eickleberry, 24, held on a charge of petit larceny. They left a door open for prisoners on the second floor, but none escaped. No attendants were on duty at the time.

Damages Reversed

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland Company, Esch Construction Co., was ordered by Federal Judge Paul Jones Tuesday to pay $25,000 to the owners of a damaged building in Canton. Previously a federal jury ordered W. T. Grant Co. in Canton to pay the bill, but the judge ruled the Grant company had a contract with Esch making the latter liable.
